Roosevelt Says Allies Will Make Strides Toward Victory in 1943

Last Train From Berlin

Suicide of Nazi Propaganda

DR. DIETRICH was always a bold spokesman, given to hazarding his reputation, or goodly parts of it, cheaply. He loved to make daring statements and bold predictions; and revelled in superlatives. Once he made the famous declaration to a public gathering that the German press was the freest press in the world, and the German public the best informed of peoples; an utterance which, early in the war, established him as an unconscionable ass with the foreign correspondents' corps.

Howard Smith

By this time, the hangover from Dietrich's last exhibition was setting in with a vengeance. Dr. Dietrich had offered his reputation on a silver platter. He found lots of takers.

For him, however, the disaster lay not in losing it with the foreign press and radio, but in losing it with the German people. The disaster was all the greater for into his personal debacle the whole reputation of Nazi propaganda was drawn. In the wake of it followed a flood of those little Witze, those political jokes and three—or four—line oral feuilletons which circulate over Germany by word of mouth faster and broader than any of Goebbels' newspapers. In private homes, people took to the little quip of raising their hands in a clenched fist salute at the mention or the Dietrich speech, and saying: Der Bolschewismus ist tot! Es lebe der Bolschewismus! ("Bolshevism is dead! Long live Bolshevism!")

Another was a crude but clever mimeographed cartoon which was secretly circulated over Berlin, showing a German propaganda soldier standing above a trench across the Russian lines and holding up a big placard to the enemy which read: "Russians! You have

Spectacular Blaze Causes $65,000 Loss

Fire, believed to have been caused by a short circuit in a switch in the tipple, destroyed the surface structures, and several hundred tons of coal at the Black Diamond mine, across the Saskatchewan from Beverly, in a spectacular blaze at 7 p.m. Wednesday. The loss is estimated at $65,000.

Thirty miners who were working below the surface at the time the fire broke out were able to leave the mine without injury.

The fire broke out at 7 p.m. and spread rapidly to the several structures at the mine head. In a matter of minutes the whole upper surface was a mass of flames.

At least two railway cars partially loaded with coal, all the surface bins, conveyors, and several hundred tons of coal as well as the main tipple and the minor tipples, were destroyed.

The flames raged for more than three hours, and for a large portion of that time, they were clearly seen by city residents. Standing silhouetted in front of the flames, and clearly seen in down town Edmonton, were several buildings. The flames were colored a bright orange and bluish tinge when they were at their peak.

The alarm was turned in by Sam Davidson, night watchman. R. Mc. Andrew, mine examiner, noticed

Renowned Surgeon - Scientist Dies in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Dr. George Crile, 78, renowned surgeon scientist, died today at the Cleveland clinic where he had been under observation for the last three weeks.

Recognized internationally for his surgical skill, Dr. Crile was known to scientists primarily for his more than 50 years of research work on the nature of life and the loss of energy that attended death.

This research, pursued in distant parts of the world and devoted principally to energy-controlling organs led to new surgical methods and medical theories.

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Another steel freighter, the Camp Aldershot, was launched here yesterday in a brief ceremony.

Japanese Ships In Rabaul Port Have Increased

MELBOURNE, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Air reconnaissance over Japan's big base at Rabaul, New Britain Island, has revealed that the concentration of Japanese shipping there has been augmented since Tuesday, when it was first disclosed by an Australian government spokesman, it was stated in government circles today.

Pilots returning from missions over Rabaul were said to have reported that the amount or warship-protected shipping now gathered at Rabaul exceeds even the forces gathered by the Japanese for their first counter-attack on the Eastern Solomons, held by United States forces.

Giraud Willing Meet de Gaulle

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, French commissioner in North Africa, has agreed in principle to meet Gen. Charles de Gaulle on French soil, but proposed for various reasons that the conference be delayed until the end of January, it was announced authoritatively today.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Dakar radio said today that Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, high commissioner for French North and West Africa, declaring the defeat of Germany to be beyond doubt, had urged all Frenchmen to unite to "liberate our Fatherland and avenge the infamous treatment inflicted by the Germans on the French people."

Giraud declared that 2,500,000 Germans have been killed but that the German army still "is very strong and Germany's internal structure is undoubtedly much stronger than in 1918." Therefore, he said, "I will not lull you into blind optimism. I am sure of victory but I am also sure that the fight will be hard, very hard."

R.A.F. Bombers Hit Japs at Rathidaung

NEW DELHI, Jan. 7.—(CP)—R.A.F. bombers made new attacks yesterday on Japanese positions in the Rathidaung area of Burma, south of Akyab on the Arakan coast, inflicting casualties and causing damage to enemy-occupied buildings, a British communique reported today.

Nazi Armies South Of Don River Face Threat of Disaster

MOSCOW, Jan. 7.—German armies south of the Don river faced the threat of disaster today and the great city of Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus, was brought within range of attack by Red army groups who had stormed and captured Bolshayaorlovka, 75 miles to the northeast.

A Red army under Col.-Gen. N. F. Vatutin, advancing from the Don, thrust a sharp 18-mile wedge southward to take Bolshayaorlovka.

Vatutin was now but 75 miles north of the railroad junction of Salsk, where the Stalingrad-Caucasus and Salsk-Rostov railroads meet.

Vatutin was in position to strike direct at Rostov or to move on Salsk.

THREATENS ENTRAPMENT

A Russian drive southward would threaten with encirclement the entire German force retreating down the Stalingrad-Caucasus railroad.

Further, Vatutin's army formed the southern claw of a pincers aimed at Rostov, the northern claw being in the neighborhood of Millerovo, 135 miles north of Rostov.

Advancing in giant strides, the Red army swept through German held towns and villages on four fighting fronts during a night of relentless attacks by infantry, cavalry, tanks and ski troops, the noon communique reported.

They had captured 23 towns and villages on the Caucasus and Don fronts alone yesterday.

Dispatches reported that the Germans had little hope of reinforcement because the Russians were steadily increasing their threat to main communication lines.

They had captured Bolshayaorlovka, only 75 miles northeast of Rostov, gateway to the North Caucasus, and 65 miles north of the ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 7.—A strong German counter attack has driven British forces from the hilltop positions they won yesterday 15 miles west of Mateur in Tunisia, it was revealed today.

The British withdrawal was made last night, it was said, and the Allied force went back to its original position in the foothills.

The Germans now hold Djel Azzac, a 1,200-foot hill north of the Mateur road and another hill to the north. The two positions had been in British hands for about 24 hours.

German infantrymen made a daylight attack yesterday. Their advance left some British troops in such an exposed situation that a withdrawal was ordered after dark. It was carried out successfully.

Fighter planes on both sides swept over the battle ground. British Hurricanes blasted the Axis gun positions.

Fighting French Take Main Axis Outpost in Fezzan Area

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—The Fighting French announced tonight that Brig.-Gen. Le Clerc's forces in southernmost Libya have stormed and captured Umm-El-Araueb, main Axis outpost in the Fezzan area.

They said French forces had advanced northward more than 1,000 miles from their bases near Lake Chad and took Umm-El-Araueb after fierce fighting lasting three days.

The Fighting French said Le Clerc's forces took several hundred prisoners, including some officers, as well as guns, machine guns and other booty.

Umm-El-Araueb is about 65 miles east of Murzuch in an area some 600 miles south of Tripoli.

The communique said the attack was commanded by Col. Ingold who, Fighting French sources reported, was the leader of one of Le Clerc's columns. They said Ingold's son recently was killed on active service in the Fighting French air force.

Social Security From Cradle to Grave: F.D.R.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told Congress today that "this great government can and must provide" assurance to the country's young fighting men and women "against the evils of all major economic hazards—assurances that will extend from the cradle to the grave."

The president, apparently in deference to congressional advice against pushing the issue, made no specific recommendations to carry out the program.

"I have been told," he said, "that this is no time to speak of a better America after the war . . .

"I dissent."

His statement capped growing curiosity in the capital that has been rising since Britain recently unveiled her long-range "Beveridge Plan" of social security. The president borrowed from his Ally's scheme the phrase "From the cradle to the grave," as applied to the coverage of social security.

LINKED WITH "FREEDOMS"

Only a week ago, the President's chairman of social security, Arthur J. Altmeyer, published an article advocating extension of the present system to pay disability benefits to injured workers and their dependents, and to cover everyone who works for a living. The present old age pension system excludes workers on farms, in schools and on domestic (maids, etc.) jobs.

The President linked planning for jobs and social security with the "four freedoms," one of which is "freedom from want."

He told the Congress that "if the security of the individual citizen or the family, should become a subject of national debate, the country knows where I stand."

New Raids Carried Out Against Japs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The United States navy reported today that two new raids had been carried out on Japanese airfields on Bougainville Island and New Georgia Island in the Solomons, and that a "valuable hit" had been scored on a Japanese transport in the Shortland Island area yesterday.

Instructor, Two Cadets Are Killed

CALGARY, Jan. 7.—(CP)—An instructor and two cadet pilots from No. 37 S.F.T.S., R.A.F. school, were instantly killed in a mid-air collision northeast of the city at 9:30 a.m. today, according to a report from officials at the school.

Sees Victory Ahead

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in his annual message before a joint session of the United States Congress, predicted today that 1943 would give the Allies a "very substantial advance along the roads that lead to Berlin and Rome and Tokyo." He also declared that social security is required for every man, woman and child from the cradle to the grave.

Highlights of Roosevelt's Address to Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Highlights of President Roosevelt's message to Congress today:

The past year was perhaps the most crucial for modern civilization; the coming year will be filled with violent conflict—yet with high promise of better things.

By far the largest and most important developments in the whole strategic picture of 1942 were the events of the long fronts in Russia.

The Axis powers knew that they must win the war in 1942—or eventually lose everything. I do not need to tell you that our enemies did not win this war in 1942.

The period of our defensive attrition in the Pacific is passing. Now our aim is to force the Japanese to fight. Last year we stopped them. This year, we intend to advance.

Great rains and appalling mud and very limited communications have delayed the final battles of Tunisia.

For those who question the quality of our aircraft and ability of our fliers, I point to the fact that, in Africa, we are shooting down two enemy planes to every one we lose, and in the Pacific we are shooting them down four to one.

I cannot prophesy. I cannot tell you when or where the United Nations are going to strike next in Europe. But we are going to strike—and strike hard.

Hitler and Mussolini always had the advantage of superior air power. That superiority has gone—forever. Yes—the Nazis and the Fascists have asked for it—and they are going to get it.

Here are some production figures: In 1942 we produced 56,000 combat vehicles, such as tanks and self-propelled artillery, 670,000 machine guns, 21,000 anti-tank guns, 10,250,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, 181,000,000 rounds of artillery ammunition. The arsenal of democracy is making good.

Yes, 1943 will not be an easy year for us on the home front. We shall feel in many ways, in our daily lives, the sharp pinch of total war. Fortunately there are few Americans who place appetite above patriotism.

It is often amusing, and it is sometimes politically profitable to picture the City of Washington as a mad-house, with the congress and the administration disrupted with confusion and indecision and general incompetence. However—what matters most in war is results. I think Berlin and Rome and Tokyo would gladly use all they could get of that same brand of madness.

We should never forget the things we are fighting for . . . the men in our armed forces want a lasting peace, and, equally, they want permanent employment for themselves, their families and their neighbors when they are mustered out at the end of the war. Complete social security for every man, woman and child must be given "from the cradle to the grave."

The United Nations can and must remain united for the maintenance of peace by preventing any attempt to rearm in Germany, in Japan, in Italy, or in any other nation which seeks to violate the 10th commandment—"thou shalt not covet."

I do not prophesy when this war will end. But I do believe that this year of 1943 will give to the United Nations a very substantial advance along the roads that lead to Berlin and Rome and Tokyo.

President Forsees Substantial Advance Against Axis Enemies

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—President Roosevelt confidently told the new congress today that he saw 1943 as a year of "very substantial advance" toward Berlin, Rome and Tokyo, and he said a "miracle of production" at home was backing the country's 7,000,000 fighting men.

"I do not prophesy when this war will end," the President said, but elsewhere in a thunderously-applauded speech he declared:

"The Axis powers knew that they must win the war in 1942—or eventually lose everything.

"I tell you it is within the realm of possibility that this 78th Congress may have the historic privilege of helping greatly to save the world from future fear."

Speech Divided Into Three Sections

Delivering his annual message to the legislators in person in the House of Representatives chamber, he called on them to put aside bickering over economic measures, and to strive to contribute to national unity.

The President's address on the state of the nation was divided into three major sections:

A review of the progress of the war, a report on America's mighty arms production, and a general outline of his hopes for the peace to follow the conflict and for guaranteeing freedom from want and fear.

Major Developments of 1942

"By far the largest and most important developments in the whole strategic picture of 1942," Mr. Roosevelt said, "were the events on the long front in Russia. First, the implacable defence of Stalingrad; and, second, the offensives by the Russian armies at various points which started in the latter part of November and which still roll on with great force and effectiveness."

The Capitol was the scene of unusual precautions taken to safeguard the President.

Hours before his arrival time police, secret service men and regular army personnel threw a cordon around the hill.

Steel-helmeted soldiers, bayonets affixed to rifles, stood at attention around the Capitol and in its plaza. No one was permitted to enter the building without a special pass or identification. Admission to the house galleries was by special card only.

To Advance in Pacific This Year

Mr. Roosevelt told the lawmakers that the period of "our defensive attrition in the Pacific," is passing, adding:

"Now our aim is to force the Japanese to fight. Last year, we stopped them. This year, we intend to advance."

In the African theatre, he predicted the last vestige of Axis powers will be driven from the south shores of the Mediterranean.

"I do not prophesy when this war will end," the President said. "But I do believe that this year of 1943 will give to the United Nations a very substantial advance along the roads that lead to Berlin, and Rome, and Tokyo.

"I tell you it is within the realm of possibility that this 78th Congress may have the historic privilege of helping greatly to save the world from future fear.

"Therefore, let us—all of us—have confidence, let us redouble our efforts."

"Will Strike Hard—In Europe"

The President opened his address with his summary of war operations, and, in it, said that "we are going to strike—and strike hard—in Europe."

"I can not tell you," he said, "whether we are going to hit them in Norway, or through the low countries, or in France, or through Sardinia, or Sicily, or through the Balkans, or through Poland—or at several points simultaneously.

"But I can tell you that no matter where and when we strike by land, we and the British and the Russians will hit them from the air heavily and relentlessly. Day in and day out we shall heap tons upon tons of explosives on their war factories and utilities and seaports."

All Seek Decent, Durable Peace

The eventual outcome of the fighting in the Pacific, the President said, can be put on a mathematical basis, since it is known that Japanese strength in ships and planes declines daily and American strength rises. He said this will become

Just "Low Monkeys"

U.S. Admiral Rates Japs 20 to 1 Against Yanks

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Admiral William Halsey, United Nations commander-in-chief in the South Pacific who recently predicted the complete defeat of the Axis in 1943, has a low estimate of the Japanese service man.

In an interview in New Zealand, the United States admiral stood confidently on his prediction of Allied victory this year and added:

"When we first started out, I held one of our men equal to three Japanese. I now increase this to 20.

"They are not supermen although they try to make us believe they are. They are just low monkeys. I say monkeys because I cannot say what I would like to call them."

NO "INFORMATION"

(In Washington Wednesday, Elmer Davis, United States director of war information, was asked to comment on Halsey's first prediction of victory in 1943 and replied: "I have no information to support such a prediction, although I have been trying to get some.")

Of reported atrocities by the Japanese in combat in the Solomons, Halsey said they occur usually when American are trying to aid Japanese who are either wounded or seem wounded.

"The way the Japanese meets this kindness is with a hand grenade," he said. "That is quite in line with their apish or bestial instincts, use which word you like."

In reply to a question whether there was basis for the one-time popular belief that Japanese battleships were top-heavy, the admiral said:

NOT TOP HEAVY

"We sank two battleships, one by direct gunfire at night and the other by a combination of gunfire, bombing and torpedo action. It took a long time to sink that fellow. No, I will not say he was top-heavy."

flames crackling against one of the tipples, and immediately notified fire-boss J. Chalmers, who took charge of the evacuation of the 30 men working underground. They were removed in orderly fashion and without mishap.

ENGINE CALLED

A pump engine from No. 2 hall was called to serve as a protection against the flames spreading to nearby houses and other buildings. The pump engine used water out of the mine.

No attempt was made to save the mine structure as the flames, fed by heaps of coal, enveloped the whole upper surface in a matter of minutes.

Alex and James Dunn, owners of the mine, estimated the damage at $65,000. They stated that the mine will be closed for at least two to three weeks, after which it will operate only on a small scale for a considerable time longer.

The Black Diamond mine is a "horizontal mine" with 485 feet of "rooms" sloping to a depth of 150 feet.

The miners were working 150 feet below the surface at the time and were protected from the effects of smoke and flames by a ventilating system that kept the flames and smoke above the surface.

The miners, 29 in all, worked on the "afternoon" shift that took them down the mine at 4 p.m. Besides Mr. Chalmers, the fire-boss, the following 29 miners were under the surface at the time:

A. Park, machine runner; J. Forrest, helper;. A. Harphan, machine runner; Mike Gerdaliti, helper; F. Zubal, machine runner; A. Cormack helper; A. Woronka, B. Baelben, J. Bonk, Mike Mucisin, timbermen; A. Lovell, motorman; F. Antoniuk, pony driver; P. Shurko, trackayer; Steve Perick; G. Bochinsky, W. Smith, timber helpers; F. Koslenko, timberman; J. Babuik, E. Miller, timber helpers; D. Mubayenik, trackayer; George Brown, J. Simo, J. Hanlt E. Mason, W. Mason, A. Gafnik, P. Higgins, Mike Olryuk, loaders.

Loss of production at the mine will affect the coal supply to the street railway and the city power plant. City officials are investigating ways and means of overcoming the threatened shortage.

DAILY OUTPUT

Daily production at the mine was 500 tons. Wholesale orders dating from September have not been filled and retail orders are three weeks in arrears, a mine official stated.

Government officials stated that the seriousness of the coal situation created by the fire, will only be deterred by the type of weather. If mild weather continues the situation should not be aggravated to a great degree, one official stated.

Robert Dalziel, Black Diamond mine manager, stated that repair work will begin immediately after insurance adjusters have completed their survey.

Liquor Chairmen Open Conference

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Chairmen of provincial liquor control boards throughout Canada today opened a two-day conference here to discuss the federal government's request for reduced consumption of liquor, wine and beer.

Hon. A. St. Clair Gordon, chairman of the Ontario board and Association of Provincial Liquor Commissioners, presided.

Decisions reached at the conference will not be announced until its conclusion tomorrow night, but it was stated one of the major questions would be a reduction in beverage room hours in provinces where they are permitted to operate.

Great North Trail Proposed as Name For Alaska Road

CALGARY, Jan. 7. — (CP) — A proposal the new highway to Alaska be named "The Great North Trail" has been forwarded to the Calgary board of trade by Joseph K. Howard, Great Falls, Mont.

Mr. Howard stated the route of the new highway was practically the same as that taken thousands of years ago by the Asiatics who later became the Indians and Eskimos of the American continent.

"It was a warriors' road then and is today," he said.

War News Summary

THURSDAY, JANUARY 7

Russia: The position of the Germans in the Caucasus rapidly is becoming desperate as the Russians close in from the north and east and are now threatening from the west.

The Russians are reported to be preparing, or have already started, an offensive on the Black Sea coast of the Caucasus. The report comes from neutral sources in Stockholm, while the Berlin radio, heard in London, said that fighting already had begun in the Novorossisk-Taupse region of the coast.

The Germans may not be able to extricate themselves from the Red Army trap and thus face the possibility of disaster.

This new Russian threat is combined with an even more imminent one to the key city of Rostov at the mouth of the Don. Russian forces advancing southward from the south bend of the Don have reached Bolshayaorlovka only 75 miles north of the city.

The speed of Gen. N. F. Vatutin's southward advance may determine the fate of the German army in the North Caucasus. If he can storm Rostov before the Germans can withdraw to that city along the railroad from the oil fields, they would be cu off and ir a hopeless position without any supply line except by air.

North Africa: British headquarters reported a continuing lull in the pursuit of Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Corps in Libya. Italian headquarters noted "increased patrol activity."

The Tunisia front was also quiet.

Muddy terrain is said to have impeded mechanized movements.

Pacific Theatre: Allied airmen have rounded out their 12th straight day of heavy attacks against Japanese bases in the New Guinea area.

A Jap cargo ship has been sunk and an unidentified vessel damaged by Canadian and American bombers in the Aleutians area. The United States navy says the attack occurred a considerable distance from, but in the direction of the Pribilof Islands—an American government reservation.

Attack forces, carrying out the first United States naval offensive in the Solomons in five months, has bombarded the new Jap air base at Munda on New Georgia Island.

On Guadalcanal, American troops killed 84 more Japs.

Meanwhile British and American bombers have blasted and burned vital railway targets at Mandalay, the heart of the Jap supply system in Burma.

State Hospital Plan Reported Being Studied

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Dr. R. K. Wodehouse, deputy minister of pensions and health, said last night he had no comment to make on a report from Toronto that the Federal government was studying a state hospitalization plan. Hon. Harold Kirby, Ontario health minister, said in Toronto that a state hospitalization plan was being studied by the Dominion government and that institution of the plan on a national scale was probable.

Jap Vessel Sunk In Aleutian Seas

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The United States navy reported yesterday that American bombers had sunk a Japanese cargo ship in Aleutian waters and had scored a direct hit on another ship.

Canadian Gunner Is Awarded D.F.C.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—PO. W. J. Stewart of Montreal, a 24-year-old rear gunner who shot down a Focke-Wulf 190 and damaged another last month when his aircraft was engaged in a search for the crew of another plane in the Bay of Biscay, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, it was announced last night.

important city of Salsk, junction of the Stalingrad-Caucasus and Rostov-Caucasus railroads. Here they had driven a sharp 19 mile wedge from the south arm of the Don River Bend.

Now, on this front, the Russians were in position to drive straight on Rostov or southward toward Salsk, to enveloping the Germans retreating down the Stalingrad-Caucasus railroad.

On the Caucasus front the Russians were driving rapidly up the railroad leading toward Rostov from the rich eastern oil fields and had already advanced more than 25 miles from Prikhladnenski.

It was indicated that the Russians were attacking also 100 miles west of Prokhladnenski and the same distance east of the Maikop oil fields in the Black Sea region. A Berlin broadcast heard by the London newspaper Star said the fighting had broken out in Tuapse-Novorossisk area on the coast west of the Maikop fields.

CAPTURE LARGE CENTRE

In the Caucasus, in a ferocious night attack, the Russians stormed and captured a large inhabited place, the noon communique said. They killed 500 Germans, took 200 prisoners and captured 28 tanks, seven armored cars, 20 field guns, 74 machine guns, 33 trench mortars, 160 trucks and several supply and food dumps.

On the Middle Don front assault troops ripped into the German rear, smashed resistance point, still advancing toward the lines, and captured 12 anti-tank guns, four field guns and 18 trucks. They left 400 German dead on the field.

In another Middle Don sector the Russian storm troops broke through desperate enemy resistance to take several more inhabited places, the noon communique said.

RIP THEIR DEFENCES

South and southwest of Stalingrad, where two fronts have been merged into one, Russian infantry tore through the German defences and captured two inhabited places in a wild fight in almost pitch darkness with bayonets and hand grenades, killing 300 Germans and took more than 100 prisoners.

Besides the gains on these southern fronts, the Russians gained ground in Stalingrad city and northwest of it.

On the Central Front, in the area west of Rzhev, Russian ski troops went into action in a surprise flanking attack on a German-held fortified village. They broke into the village streets, killed about 200 Germans and took some prisoners. Their spoils had not been counted when the noon communique was issued.

Besides the important gains on the four fronts mentioned, the Russians on the Northwest Stalingrad front captured 20 trenches and took prisoners during the night.

In another sector northwest of Stalingrad the Russians killed 200 Germans in cutting off attempted sorties by isolated enemy groups.

In Stalingrad city small Red Army storm troop groups captured a series of German dugouts in the factory area.

NAZI LOSSES JAN. 1-5

A special communique issued last night put the toll of German dead between Jan. 1 and Jan. 5 at 20,000 killed south and southwest of Stalingrad. In these five days, the special communique said, the Russians took 6,500 prisoners and captured, to bring their total of prisoners since the great Red army offensive started Nov. 19 to 91,000.

War spoils captured in the five-day period included 27 planes, 56 tanks, 429 machine guns, 267 trench mortars, 1,016 anti-tank rifles, 10,000 tommy guns, 15,750 rifles, more than 3,000,000 artillery shells, more than 20,000,000 rounds of rifle and machine gun ammunition, 500,000 airplane bombs, 83 radio transmitters, 520 trucks laden with war materials and supplies, 4,400 loaded carts, 3,217 horses, 18 locomotives, 400 railroad cars and 36 big supply and material dumps.

Nazis' Armistice Group in Britain

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—An authoritative British source said today that "certain members" of the German armistice commission, who were captured in French North Africa, had been brought to Britain for questioning.

Lull Persists In Pursuit of Rommel Corps

CAIRO, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The lull in the pursuit of Field Marshal Rommel across Libya is persisting. British headquarters communique said today, with nothing except patrol activity to report from the ground forces and only a slight increase in air activity over the battle area.

"The enemy attempted one or two fighter-bomber attacks causing but little damage," the war bulletin said. "Three Messerschmitt-109's were shot down by our ground fire."

Another Allied attack Tuesday night on the Tripolitanian Tunisian port of Sousse, it said, started fires in railway sidings and the waterfront.

OFFENSIVE OPERATIONS

The communique said Allied planes also carried out offensive operations yesterday over Sicily and Lampedusa Island, dropping stones in the enemy air transport route from Europe to North Africa. It said Allied planes were missing from all operations.

V

Berlin Claims U-Boat Travels Up Mississippi

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—The German radio, in a broadcast beamed to the United States but heard here, reported today that a German submarine had travelled 90 miles up the Mississippi river "to within a few miles of New Orleans" in the hope of destroying a bridge.

The raider was detected, however, forced to return to the Gulf of Mexico, the broadcast asserted.

There was no confirmation of the German report from any other source. Date of the alleged exploit was not given.

Canadian Wheat Given to Greece

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Delivery of 16,000 tons of Canadian gift wheat to the starving people of Greece was reported today to the external affairs department in a message from Prince Charles of Sweden, president of the Swedish Red Cross.

The wheat was carried in Swedish steamships sailing under safe conduct from Canada through the belligerent powers. Distribution is made by a Red Cross commission composed of Swedish and Swiss members.

The ships also carried dried vegetables, powdered milk and medical supplies, largely furnished by American organizations. Canada is giving 15,000 tons of wheat a month for Greek relief and the transport operations have been going on about five months.

Dominion Is Urged Remain in Empire

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Continued partnership for Canada in the British Empire was urged today by Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, leader of the Ontario Conservative party.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Empire Club of Toronto, Col. Drew said also: "I believe the British people throughout the world should look upon their association as a family partnership maintained on a strictly business basis with some form of guiding committee meeting periodically to settle all questions of common concern.

"Something of that kind is, I believe, the first step which must be taken if there is to be a sound foundation for the personal security which our people rightly demand and to which they are entitled."

Quisling Marks Down Hostages To Stay Aid If Norway Invaded

By EDWIN SHANKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Swedish press reported last night that Vidkun Quisling has made up a list of representative Norwegians, including churchmen, to be arrested and held as hostages the moment an invasion of German-held Norway occurs. The press also reported that Quisling by that method hopes to stay the people from joining the fighting.

Quisling apparently is feeling so insecure, the press added, that he has expropriated four estates neighboring his castle Gimle outside Oslo in order to isolate the property and shelter it with a heavy force of guards.

A purge of "unreliable" Quisling agents is expected in Norwegian quarters as the Germans continue to speed up anti-invasion measures in Norway.

CHECK ON STAFF

The latest indication of fears of Quislingism within the Nasjonal Samling, the Quisling party in Norway, was said by the Norwegian Nazi official in Oslo to communal chairmen requesting at the insistence of the ministry of interior that they survey their official employees as soon as possible and determine who ought to be dismissed.

Reports continue to flow from Norway telling of intensive defensive preparation by the Germans in the last two months along the west coast.

Dugouts, trenches, and machine-gun posts built earlier in parks, streets and corners, now are being replaced by stronger and more permanent fortifications.

Concrete tank barriers are being built to block streets leading from harbors or likely landing places. Buildings are being converted to strongholds.

Inland strategic crossroads and other vital communications are being fortified.

RAILMEN THREATENED

Railway workers have been threatened with death, it was reported, if they reveal military transport movements or movements of trains carrying prominent Germans.

The newspaper Aftonbladet said that a plan has been prepared for conscription of the male population of Norway for labor service in event of an invasion in order to prevent the men from aiding the Allies.

Outcroppings of dissatisfaction and distrust within Quisling's Nasjonal Samling Party, especially among the strong-armed Hirdmen, who are the Norwegian Elite troops, were said to be complicating the situation.

Quisling's position was described as difficult because the party, with only an estimated 30,000 members, has no few capable and reliable men to draw on. The Hirdmen have been estimated to number between 5,000 and 6,000.

HIRDMEN PROTEST

Recent reports, now confirmed by reliable Norwegian quarters, said that a group of Hirdmen invaded the Norwegian Nazi headquarters and knocked down Quisling adjutant and party minister Fuglesang as a protest against "Free Masons and renegades" taking over big party jobs.

Disaffection and dissertions by the Hirdmen across the Norwegian border were said to be occurring periodically recently because of the apparent error Quisling's anti-Jewish measures and deportations,

Canadian Army Move Is Lauded

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—The Evening News said editorially today that the sending of a detachment of Canadian troops to Britain to North Africa where it can see war at first hand "is an interesting and valuable stroke." Arrival of the Canadians was disclosed Tuesday.

"It is an attempt to overcome one of our handicaps, the fact that most of our men have not yet heard a shot fired in anger," the paper said, adding that while Britain has made of Dunkerque and the 8th Army who have been battle tested there is still the problem of teaching the same lessons to others.

"The solution during these days of preparation seems to be the Canadian solution—send out men who take part for a time in present battle-fronts and spread knowledge and inspiration among the soldiers who will have to fight the battles of the future."

Slav Leader Warns Huns of Reprisals

CAIRO, Jan. 7.—(AP)—George Crawley, Reuters news agency correspondent, said yesterday that Gen. Draja Mihailovic has issued a statement from his secret patriot headquarters threatening to "use the same measures against Serbian soldier quislings in Yugoslavia if the Germans continue their atrocities in Serbia."

Crawley said the Yugoslav patriot leader declared that, fearing a general uprising in Yugoslavia in the event of an Italian debacle, Germany has recently sent another three divisions into our region, bringing the total to nine German divisions.

"The Italians," the general's statement added, "have 18 divisions stationed in Yugoslavia, the Bulgarians seven and the Hungarians six.

"Even so the Axis does not feel secure in our country. Two divisions were recruited among members of the German minority, while the Croat Ustachi iron guardist and fascist Axis supporting government are being used against the Yugoslav army under my command."

955 Foe Planes Destroyed Over Malta in 1942

LONDON, Jan. 7. — (CP) — Malta, the British Mediterranean stronghold which has undergone more bombing raids than any other one spot during this war, destroyed 955 enemy aircraft in 1942 the Middle East News Service of the R.A.F. said yesterday. Of these, 772 were shot down by R.A.F. fighters with loss of 195 British craft. The pilots of 28 of these fighters saved, however. Anti-aircraft fire accounted for 182 of the enemy craft.

On the offensive against enemy supply ships in the Mediterranean, R.A.F. planes based on Malta attacked 46 convoys, six single vessels and five forces of naval vessels.

The result was 46 ships either sunk, severely damaged or left in flames, and about 40 other ships damaged to a less degree.

Naval aircraft based at Malta hit 37 ships with bombs or torpedoes, including four cruisers and two destroyers.

In its attempts to knock out the island the enemy last year dropped 12,000 tons of bombs on it.

Striking back with its limited resources, planes from Malta have dropped 3,500 tons of bombs on the enemy in North Africa and Sicily.

evident to the Japanese people "when we strike at their own home islands, and bomb them constantly from the air."

Near the close of his address, Mr. Roosevelt said all the United Nations want a "decent peace and a durable peace." He added that American fighting men want not only a lasting peace, but permanent employment for themselves, their families and neighbors when they are mustered out.

The people on the home front, he said, do not want a post-war America suffering from under-nourishment, slums or the dole.

People Want Economic Security

The young men and women of the United States, he said, want assurances "against evils of all major economic hazards—assurance that will extend from the cradle to the grave." He said the government can and must provide this assurance.

Mr. Roosevelt gave no particulars on any new social security legislation. He said he had been told it was no time to speak of a better America after the war and that it was a grave error for him to do so.

"I dissent," he declared flatly.

"If the security of the individual citizen, or the family, should become a subject of national debate, the country knows where I stand."

Not an Issue But a Task For All

He said he trusted that providing freedom from want would not be regarded as an issue during the coming two years of the 78th Congress, but as a task for all to study sympathetically.

Mr. Roosevelt said he could report with genuine pride on the strides of war production in 1942. And, while achieving a miracle of production, he said, the country had increased its armed forces from a little more than 2,000,000 to 7,000,000.

On production, he cited specific figures.

Last month, he said, 3,500 military planes rolled out of American factories and the rate is rising rapidly. But he conceded that 1942 plane output and tank production fell numerically short of the goals set a year ago. His goal last January was 60,000 planes and 45,000 tanks for last year. Actual production of planes was 48,000, but he emphasized that bigger planes with more striking power were being built now.

REVISE TANK SCHEDULES

Tank production schedules were revised because of battle experience, the president said, and a portion converted to the output of new, deadly field weapons, especially self-propelled artillery. Last year, he said, America's factories turned out 56,000 combat vehicles, including this artillery and tanks.

The 1942 output of machine-guns, he said, was 670,000, six times greater than in 1941, and three times the figure for the whole year and a half of United States participation in the First Great War.

In anti-tank guns, the 21,000 units turned out last year were six times more than in 1941. This compared with a goal he announced last January of 20,000.

The 1942 production of small arms ammunition, the president said, was 10,250,000,000 rounds, five times the total for the year before. In artillery ammunition, he continued, production was stepped up 12 times over 1941 and aggregated 181,000,000 rounds.

"ARSENAL MAKING GOOD"

"The arsenal of democracy is making good," he said in summary.

"These facts and figures will give no aid and comfort to the enemy. On the contrary, I can imagine they will give him considerable discomfort. I suspect Hitler and Tojo will find it difficult to explain to the Germans and Japanese people just why it is that 'decadent, inefficient democracy' can produce such phenomenal quantities of weapons and munitions—and fighting men.

Mr. Roosevelt conceded mistakes had been made and that there had been too many complicated forms and questionnaires. The latter, he said, represented an honest and sincere attempt to see to it that supplies of food and other essential civilian goods were distributed on a fair and just basis and that living costs were held at a stable level.

"Our experience," he continued, "will enable us during the coming year to improve the necessary mechanisms of war-time economic controls and to simplify administrative procedure. But we do not intend to leave things so lax that loopholes will be left for cheaters, for chiselers, or for manipulators of the black market."

CIVILIANS TO FEEL PINCH

Civilians, he said, will feel increasingly the sharp pinch of total war, but said there were few Americans who placed appetite above patriotism.

"The overwhelming majority realize," Mr. Roosevelt declared, "that the food we send abroad is for essential military purposes, for our own Allied fighting forces, and for necessary help in areas that we occupy.

"We Americans intend to do this great job together. In our common labors we must build and fortify the very foundation of national unity—confidence in one another."

We take off our hats, he said, to those responsible for production records, to farmers, facing a task of feeding much of the world, to those in private life and in government who have endured rationing and other stringencies with good humor and good will.

MUST AVOID ISOLATIONISM

The President said it was of little account to talk of essential human needs and security if we run the risk of another world war in 15 or 20 or 50 years. He said he shuddered to think what would happen to humanity if the conflict ended in "an inconclusive peace."

"Undoubtedly a few Americans, even now," he said, "think that this nation can sit back and think comfortably and then climb back into an American hole and pull the hole in after them.

"But we have learned that we can never dig a hole so deep that we can escape from predatory animals. We have also learned that if we do not pull the fangs of the predatory animals of this world, they will multiply and grow in strength—and they will be at our throats once more in a short generation."

MUST BE DISARMED

Germany, Italy and Japan, he said, must be disarmed and kept disarmed, and must abandon a philosophy which has brought suffering to the world. If they remain armed, or are permitted to rearm, inevitably they will embark again on a career of world conquest.

The United Nations can and must remain united for the maintenance of peace, the president asserted, by preventing any attempt of the Axis triumvirate to rearm.

"The issue of this war," Mr. Roosevelt said, "is the basic issue between those who believe in mankind and those who do not—the ancient issue between those who put their faith in dictators and tyranny. There have always been those who did not believe in the people, who attempted to block their forward progress across history, to force them back to servility and suffering and silence.

MOVE FORWARD IN FORCE

"The people have now gathered their strength. They are moving forward in their might and power—and no force, no combination of forces, no trickery, deceit or violence can stop them now. They see before them the hope of the world —a decent, secure, peaceful life for men everywhere."

In his war review, the president praised the qualities of America's fighting men and called their spirit unconquerable.

Behind the battling in Russia, he listed these other events as major ones of 1942: the Japanese advances in the South Pacific and Indian oceans, Britain's successful defence of the eastern Mediterranean areas, and the Anglo-American entry into North Africa. Also important, he said, were the smashing battles of the convoy routes and the gradual assumption of air superiority by the United Nations.

The British counter-attack through Egypt and Libya he linked with the success ful prior defence of the eastern Mediterranean area.

MOST VITAL U.S. VICTORY

The United States' most important victory in the Pacific in 1942, the president said, was the air and naval battle off Midway Island because it secured communication lines stretching thousands of miles in every direction.

The battles of the Coral Sea, New Guinea and the Solomon Islands were described as essentially defensive and part of a delaying strategy that characterized their phase of the war when steady losses were inflicted on the Japanese in places, naval vessels, transports, and cargo ships.

On the question of aid to China, Mr. Roosevelt said as much lend-lease material is being flown in as ever rolled along the Burma road.

4,000 Arrested For Attempted Rumania Putsch

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS

BERNE, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Juliu Maniu, peasant leader who led agitation in Rumania 10 months ago for withdrawal of that country from the Axis, was among 4,000 persons arrested in a new purge of the old iron guard after an attempted Christmas Eve putsch, it was reported yesterday from Budapest.

Eighty persons have been executed, it was said.

The wife of Horia Sima, himself caught in Italy while attempting to return to Rumania from Germany to lead the revolt, also was taken into custody. Sima is the Rumanian iron Guard leader and former cabinet member.

PLANS FOR PUTSCH

Plans for the putsch were said to have been laid on a wide basis and called for the ouster of Marshal Ion Antonescu, head of the government.

The Iron Guard participants had planned, private foreign advises said, to capitalize on the general sentiments against the war on Russia to gain support for the government they hoped to form.

Report Nazis Have Replaced Tunisian Chief

By EDMIN SHANKE

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 7—(AP)—Another change in German military leadership was reported today by dispatches from Berlin which said General Walther Nehring had been superseded by Col. Gen. Von Arnim as commander-in-chief of the Axis forces in Tunisia.

The berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet, who reported the change described Von Arnim as "one of Hitler's favorite panzer commanders," but offered no comment on the significance of the appointment.

Another Swedish newspaper, the Dagens Nyheter, said the weekly German newsreel had shown the Bey of Tunis receiving Von Arnim and indicated he now is in command.

(British sources in London said they had no confirmation o the Swedish reports, which they said apparently referred to Gen. Oberst Gurgen Von Arnim, an expert in tank warfare.)

There was no intimation from Germany that Nehring—whose forces have been giving the Allies bitte opposition in Tunisia—had fallen into disfavor with Hitler.

R.A.F. USING 2,000 - POUND "SLOW-BOMB"

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—The censors permitted the first mention yesterday of the R.A.F.'s use of a new 2,000-pound "slow-bomb" in several recent raids on Germany.

With a secret braking device it falls at reduced speed and on impact spreads destruction rather than dissipating most of its power downward.

The drag is in the form of a cap at one end. The R.A.F. said the new bomb could not be described accurately as a parachute type because it does not float.

The top-side and under-side effects of the explosion on impact are described as "terrific."

He promised that America will "get the battle equipment into China to shatter the power of our common enemy," and prophesied that China will come out of the war with the security, prosperity and dignity which Japan had sought ruthlessly to destroy.

He paid tribute to Allied leaders, Winston Churchill, Joseph Stalin and Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, and spoke a word of welcome to French army and navy forces which joined the United Nations forces as a result of the Allied occupation of North Africa.

LAST TRAIN FROM BERLIN

BY HOWARD K. SMITH

ceased to exist!" It was signed "Dr. Dietrich." At the moment of drawing, however, the said propaganda soldier had become involved with a Russian shell and his various members were flying in all directions. Below him in the trench a very Prussian lieutenant, who had been looking across through a periscope, had turned to a quizzical general behind him and was saying: "Stupid, these Russians, they apparently don't understand a word of German!"

THREE CLIMAXES

Less funny, but more incisive was the little observation which might be called the "The Climaxes of Hitler," which circulated at the same time. It has no particular punch-line, but belongs to the same category of expression for, like them, it was always introduced with the traditional preface: "Do you know what people are saying? . . ." According to this, the first climax was the climax of Diplomacy—Munich. After that diplomacy never again played an important part in Hitler's policies; the rest was guns. The second was the military climax: the campaign in France, the perfect application of Blitzkrieg with the perfect ending: the total destruction of a great army. The third was the climax of propaganda: the Dietrich speech after Hitler's press chief had raised the spirits of his people to the skies and then let them fall crashing down into the abyss of despair. German propaganda could never again influence to any important degree the morale of the German people.

This was more than a cogent little analysis suitable for table talk. The evidence for its truth is overwhelming. The first sign was the decline in newspaper sales. To test word-of-mouth reports that a decline had occurred, I asked my newspaper vendor in a large kiosk on Wittenberg Platz, and was told that sales of newspapers had fallen off in all the kiosks operated by her particular concession-holder. In her kiosk the drop had been greater than forty per cent. As Berliners will, they invented a joke about the German press after that. It concerns a Berlin paper called the "B.Z.", meaning Berliner Zeitung. You were supposed to ask to make the joke click, why it was that the only newspaper people read any more was the "B.Z." The answer was because it lies only from B to Z, while all the others lie from A to Z.

MORE IMPORTANT

More important still, because it was a positive sign people were seeking news elsewhere, rather than the negative one that they were ceasing to look for information from Nazi sources, was the rapid increase in listening to news broadcasts from foreign capitals—especially London and Moscow. An official of the Propaganda Ministry told me arrests for this "crime" in Germany tripled after the Dietrich speech.

In the newspapers it was announced that two individuals were punished with the extreme penalty, death, for listening to London: On October 30, 1941, Dr. Goebbels confirmed the increase by publishing in every newspaper in Germany a list of stations to which people might listen, stations in Germany and occupied countries; and he coupled with it a warning not to overstep these limits, which were clearly drawn exactly for this purpose.

In November, every citizen in Germany received, with his ration-tickets for the month, a little red book with a hole punched in the middle of it so that it might be hung on the station-dial of a radio set, and on the card was the legend "Racial Comrades! You are Germans! It is your duty not to listen to foreign stations. Those who do so will be mercilessly punished!" A week later in my neighborhood houses were visited by local Nazi chiefs to make sure that the cards had been fastened to radios and were still there. People who had no radio sets were told to keep the cards anyhow and to let them be a reminder not to listen to the conversation of people who did have radios and tuned in on foreign stations. So far as I could discover, the main effect of the new wave of propaganda and threats against listening was to make those who had been afraid to do so curious, and to convert them into regular listeners of enemy stations. After all, it is almost impossible to catch a person actually listening to foreign stations; it is so easy for him to switch back to the Deutschland Sender the moment the doorbell rings. Almost all those who have been arrested were apprehended, not while listening but while telling others, in public places, what they had heard.

DIDN'T RAISE SALES

On November 23, 1941, the Voelkischer Beobachter got out its red-ink pot again to publish a big two-word headline. It was: "ROSTOV TAKEN!" But it didn't raise sales any at all. The people read much more closely an inconspicuous little notice of the High Command which appeared in the V.B. two weeks later. Then it was getting on to Christmas. The shops were empty except for the toy shops where there were lots of cardboard games like one called "Bombs on England." There was no liquor for Christmas punch and there were no geese or rabbits for Christmas dinner. On the streets at dusk, queues before shops were getting longer The notice in the papers was "to the effect that a Russian town named Rostov, situated at the mouth of the Don river, had been evacuated by the troops of the Fuehrer in order to prepare reprisals against the civil population in view of their inhospitable attitude. It was in black ink.

Lt.-Gen. Stuart Paid Visit to Aleutian Isles

VANCOUVER, Jan. 7—(CP)—Lt. Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of the Canadian general staff, last summer made an aerial trip to the Aleutian Islands to obtain first-hand information on the strength of Japanese forces at Kiska and Attu and the possibility of an enemy push into southeastern Alaska and British Columbia, the Vancouver Province said in a newspage story yesterday.

The Province said Gen. Stuart's personal trip "May now be revealed for the first time," and went on to say that he also flew to San Francisco to discuss with Maj Gen John DeWitt, officer commanding United States forces on the Pacific problems of defence involving the two countries.

THOROUGH STUDY

Gen. Stuart, the story continued, had made a thorough study of conditions on the Pacific coast and the problems involved in adequately defending it in the event of a Japanese attack during the three months last year when he held temporary command of the Pacific command.

He relinquished the command to Major Gen. Graham in July or August to take over as chief of the general staff.

The Province said that Gen. Stuart would come here late next week, probably Jan. 16, for important discussions with Gen. Pearkes and other high ranking military officials.

While details of discussion could not be disclosed, it can be stated that problems relating to defence of the Pacific coast will be under fire, the story added.

Food Agreement Is Reached by Canada, States

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—The United States and Canada have agreed on methods of producing maximum quantities of food in 1943 for the common good of the United Nations, it was announced here yesterday, following a conference between Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner of Canada and the United States secretary of agriculture, Claude Wickard.

The Canadian minister, with seven officials of the agricultural department, came to Washington at Wickard's invitation. The general purpose was to further the co-ordination of food-production programs between the two countries.

JOINT COMMITTEE

A joint agricultural committee, consisting of officials of the two countries, will be established to keep a constant watch on production and distribution developments. It will report to both governments and, in certain respects, is similar to the joint board on industrial production already functioning.

It was announced the agricultural goals of the two countries, as set for 1942, are considered adequate because they have been designed to produce the biggest volume of food from the standpoint of the requirement of the United Nations. It also was agreed that after 1943, increases and adjustments of production programs will be undertaken in order to meet prospective demands.

A statement issued by the department of agriculture, endorsed by the Canadian delegation, said special emphasis during the conferences was placed on the importance of expanding livestock production in both countries. This would reduce the big surplus of feed grain held both by Canada and United States. It also was agreed to take steps toward establishing adequate reserve supplies of feed with a view to a possible interchange between the two countries as the need arises.

Consideration was given to feed production, especially grass and clover seed in Canada. Canada expects to increase her acreage of alfalfa, alsike and red clover this year and need find a ready market in the United States for excess production.

OVERSEAS MOVEMENT

Special announced attention was paid to the movement overseas of food products from Canada and United States. It was agreed it would be desirable to make some shifts in production for export to Britain, with a view to supplying larger quantities from Canada and less from United States.

An agreement on this phase of the negotiations will be sought later, it was stated, particularly on the extent of the shift from the standpoint of production policies and food supplies in both countries.

The question of food supplies in relation to consumption requirements in the two countries also was discussed. It was agreed that as a matter of principle, restrictions or rationing of similar food products should impose substantially equal sacrifice on the people of the two countries.

3 War Industries Visited by Envoys

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Three more vital war industries in this district were visited yesterday by members of the diplomatic corps from Ottawa who have been conducted on a tour of Canada's war plants by federal government officials for the last two days.

The diplomats first saw the construction of 4.5 and 5.5-inch naval guns at the big National Railways Munitions Limited plant, which has been supplying both the Royal Navy and the Royal Canadian Navy. Originally built for the construction of tanks, the plant also is turning out a specially-designed carriage for the 4.5-inch medium field artillery.

At the Cherrier shell-filling plant near here, Canadian Arsenal Munitions' Limited they put on the special rubber-soled shoes used to eliminate all friction in a plant "where you practically breath high explosives."

Two Italian Liners With Repatriates Are Safely Docked

ROME (from Italian broadcasts), Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Italian liners Vulcania and Saturnia, carrying Italian civilians being repatriated from East Africa, have arrived at an Italian port, the official news agency reported yesterday.

The repatriation of thousands of Italian noncombatants caught in Ethiopia, Somaliland and Eritrea when British forces wrested those East African areas from Mussolini's forces has been carried out by special British-Italian agreement. It has been in progress for more than a year. The Italian liners made the long voyage around Africa and into the Mediterranean under the British navy's safe conduct.

Naval Hospital at Halifax Is Opened

HALIFAX, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Canada's only permanent naval hospital was officially opened here yesterday by Rear Admiral L. W. Murray, naval officer commanding on the Atlantic coast, in a brief ceremony in the lobby of the three-storey brick and concrete structure. The 175-bed hospital actually has been looking after patients for the last three weeks

Due to Conflict

Soviet Religious Attitude May Be Undergoing Change

The writer of the following dispatch was formerly stationed in Moscow as chief of bureau for the Associated Press.—EDITOR.

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Some years ago, when many Russian churches were being demolished to make room for other structures, a popular news reel shown in Soviet picture theatres portrayed the dynamiting of a sacred edifice, with its bulbous towers collapsing and its bells crashing down upon the cobblestoned square.

Then by the trick of reversing the film, the church for a moment magically returned to its former state, with the bells flying back into the belfries and the toppled crosses whizzing back into place.

A tasteful thought, perhaps, but one that occurred to a Washington ian formerly stationed in the Soviet Union when he read a dispatch from Moscow announcing that Premier Joseph Stalin had sent "Greetings and thanks" to the acting patriarch of the Russian Orthodox church in acknowledgment of a church subscription to buy tanks for the Red Army.

UNPRECEDENTED

Stalin's unprecedented message to the acting patriarch comes in the midst of a terrible war, and at a time when the war seems to be changing the attitude of many people toward religion.

No one yet has come forward with a prediction that Stalin, who attended a theological seminary in his youth, is about to return to the bosom of the church. But it is inevitable that his message to the acting patriarch will excite comment throughout the world.

It is the first time since Stalin came to power that a friendly message from him to an ecclesiastic has been published by the Soviet press. In past years, clergymen frequently have been mentioned in Soviet newspapers, but usually as defendants in treason trials.

Such trials and activities of the militant godless league were so numerous that many people outside Russia came to believe that the church had been exterminated there.

In 1941, however, President Roosevelt called attention to the fact that article 124 of the Soviet constitution recognizes freedom of worship. However the Soviet constitution does not recognize freedom of pro-religious propaganda. It is illegal, for instance, to teach religion to minors.

Before the revolution there were more than 300 churches in Moscow. By 1939 about 20 still were functioning as churches, the others had disappeared, or had been converted to garages, motion picture theatres, workers' clubs, anti-religious museums, and so forth.

Ontario Undergoes Surprise Blackout

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Ontario last night went through its largest surprise air raid test when screaming sirens blacked out lights from suburban Toronto on the east to the western boundary of the Niagara peninsula.

The half-hour test—starting at 9:45 p.m. E.D.T.—was international in scope, embracing the western portion of New York State. Civilian defence officials in Ontario and New York State said the blackout was a success, although pin-points of lights gleamed in a number of cities and towns.

Fined For Lights

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Irving Fairty of Toronto, convicted on a charge laid under Defence of Canada regulations for failure to extinguish lights in his home during the blackout Nov. 18, yesterday was fined $15 or 15 days.

Why Canadian Salmon Goes To Britain

REQUISITIONED

With her great North Sea fishing fleets requisitioned by the Royal Navy, Britain today largely depends upon the Canadian salmon fishery for seafood to sustain her fighting millions. That Canada's total 1942 canned salmon pack goes to Britain—where the need is greatest.

Old Age Pensions

Alberta and British Columbia have agreed to the reciprocal payment of the five-dollar monthly bonus to old age pensioners from one province who are now resident in the other.

This arrangement is a good one so far as it goes. It wipes out the provincial line so far as the performance of an essential social service is concerned.

But the fact that the provincial line between Alberta and British Columbia requires to be wiped out, in this respect, shows how greatly is needed adequate federal legislation to cover the whole field of social security, throughout the country, in a comprehensive manner.

The agreement between the two western provinces helps the situation a very great deal. But the very fact that such an agreement is necessary shows that the ramifications of social security extend far beyond any one provincial boundary and, to be effective, should have federal treatment.

A Pool of Manpower

The French forces in southern and central Tripolitania have been giving a good account of themselves, while incessant downpours bogged the Allied and Axis armies in the north. They have gone at the job of ousting the German and Italian invaders of the protectorate as though they found it a pleasure as well as a duty.

How many of these purposeful and efficient fighters are Frenchmen has not been given out. The bulk of course are natives, drawn from the tribes which sent legions of soldiers to help defend the soil of France in the former world war. Their loyalty has apparently suffered no softening in the meantime—nor their hatred of the idea that the mild rule of France should be changed for mastery by a military dictatorship.

The territories of French northern and western Africa have a combined population of 31,000,000. It is made up very largely of men who come of fighting stock. Their courage and endurance have been shown to be on a par with those of white men. Their willingness to fight is traditional.

The forces immediately available in French Africa are 300,000 strong, active units and first line reserves. Behind them lies a great reservoir of manpower from which it is entirely practicable to recruit, train and equip an army of a million men—far larger if required.

The Fighting French should settle their differences without delay and put all the influence and resources they can muster into the task of replacing the army that was lost through the armistice with the African army that only awaits building out of the ample human material available.

Store Rationing

The Edmonton Trades and Labor Council performs a public service in drawing attention to the current merchandising practice of requiring customers to purchase a stated amount of groceries with each can of jam, honey or marmalade, and sometimes other tinned goods.

It is not difficult to appreciate the position of the merchants. They have a limited amount of these commodities and are intent upon seeing that all their customers get a fair share and that no one is allowed to hoard.

This is a commendable attitude, and their primary purpose in taking the only course open to them to prevent the practice of hoarding is a fair and honest one.

But whether this practice is iniquitous or beneficial in intent, there is no doubt that it is only the lesser of two immediate evils. And there is no doubt, either, that the merchants are well aware of that fact. They are quite conscious that in forcing customers to buy quantities of other goods with each purchase of jam to prevent the hoarding of jam, they are running the risk of encouraging the hoarding of the other incidental foodstuffs.

But what else can they do? Without this store restriction, the entire supply of rare commodities would soon disappear into the pantries of greedy purchasers who have the ready money to buy heavily.

Ottawa should put an immediate rationing necessity upon individual merchants. Surely enough price control machinery exists so that these temporary shortages can be dealt with in a national way without forcing every merchant to become an unofficial controller of foodstuffs.

If official rationing is necessary in these particulars, let us have official rationing. The Canadian people are not afraid of regulations imposed for their own good nor do they resent such regulations.

The Orders Are Orders

The Supreme Court of Canada has decided that orders issued by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and regulations made by commodity controllers, are law. They must therefore be obeyed as unreservedly as an Act of Parliament, and it is the duty of all courts to impose the penalties prescribed for violating any of these orders and regulations.

The decision goes farther. The powers which Parliament delegated to the Government by enacting the War Measures Act may be re-delegated to subsidiary boards or controllers—presumably all the powers thus transferred by the legislative to the executive branch.

This of course presents a governing set-up which Canadians would not tolerate in peacetime. But it was not framed for peacetime. Nor for the purposes of a war in which Canada was only sympathetically concerned or moderately involved. It was built to enable the nation to fight with all its strength in defence of its very existence.

Parliament is delegating these powers had no uncertainty about the seriousness of the struggle or the issues which hang on the outcome. Else such sweeping powers would not, and should not, have been handed over to the cabinet committee with authority to again transfer them to appointed officials. Only extreme national danger could inspire or justify so wide a departure from the ordinary processes of democratic procedure.

This decision does something more than bind every person in Canada to obey Board orders and Controller regulations in future. It also sweeps away any supposed excuse or hoped for excuse of those who have violated these orders and regulations in the past. In declaring these to be good law the Court thereby declares that they always were good law.

Persons who have been hoarding supplies or breaking any other of the official rules in hope that these would be declared illegal are therefore left without defence. Any who find themselves hailed into court and penalized for such practices will have only themselves to blame. They gambled that Supreme Court would veto the orders, and lost out.

The Japanese in the Buna mission apparently carried out the supposed instructions of the Emperor, and died at their posts. With the exception of a few dozen "coolie" laborers, who perhaps thought they were not included in the obligation to hold out or die, the death for Tojo and his bandit crew. A handful of the enemy corralled at Cape Sanananda, two or three miles along the coast, is the last Jap detachment left in the southeastern area of New Guinea. Operations to oust them began mid-way in November, indicating that if the occupied islands have to be recaptured one by one the fighting must be expected to be long, as well as bitter.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1893: 50 Years Ago

The machinery for the new roller mill in South Edmonton has all arrived and a staff of millwrights are busy getting it in place. It is all new and of the latest pattern and Edmonton is to have a mill capable of turning out the highest class of flour made in the Dominion.

One of the heaviest snow-falls ever known in Edmonton commenced Saturday afternoon and continued without interruption until Monday morning. The snow was light and soft and piled up to a depth of about twenty-two inches. Of course it is possible to have too much of a good thing, but for the past few years we have had too little snow, and the present fall is therefore the more welcome.

The Indians on the reserve at Whitefish lake have finished threshing, and have about 2,000 bushels of grain to dispose of. The department's steam thresher, and machinery has been sent in for a flour mill. Ptarmigan, or white partridges, are in plentiful and considerable numbers. The bird is seldom seen this far south.

Annexation Talk Is Now Completely Out of Date

Political Alliances to Have No Significance in Well Ordered World

By HAROLD L. WEIR

When an aged American professor, with some little repute in international prognostication, burst into the news on New Year's Day with a clamor for the American annexation of Canada, he received the usual polite attention.

Some of the more linguistic Canadian editors carried vehemence into their politeness and while thanking this ancient scholar for the compliment, frantically waved the Union Jack and declared that Canadians never, never would be Americans.

Harold L. Weir

I wonder how it is possible for thinking men to get as far as an age like this, to depart so lamentably far from reality.

For annexation, as an obsolete as the Boston Tea Party. It is definitely not an issue, one way or another. And the reason it is obsolete is not because there are more powerful arguments against than for it, but because, in the light of the world we hope to build, it simply does not matter.

The man who thinks today in terms of political alliances has learned absolutely nothing from the war.

Protection

The particular professor who has revived the annexation discussion does not intend, I think, to create any dissension. His argument is fairly reasonable and not too selfish.

He says that Russia, in the throes of zeal for the development of Siberia, might easily overstep into Canada and seize this country.

He also entertains fears that Japan may attempt to get control of the Dominion.

So he wants to take Canada under the American wing, both for Canada's sake and for the sake of protecting the United States from some unwanted invasion.

Now this argument, as I say, is quite reasonable—if there was the remotest chance of either of these calamities coming to pass.

But what does Russia want with Canada when she has 8,417,391 exceedingly rich and fertile square miles of her own?

How could Japan hope to control this great area so far away from the centre of her empire?

Moreover, the United States objected to either of these eventualities, she would move over here and fight against them whether Canada was part of the United States or part of the British Empire.

The proposition is reasonable. But, like so many reasonable things, it does not make sense.

Affection

If it is necessary to discuss anything so out-of-date and irrelevant as annexation, we might say that Canada's British tradition lies very close to the heart of most Canadians and any cessation of it would cause genuine distress.

Also, we are inclined to the belief that our British institutions are sounder and more efficient than purely American institutions.

On the other hand, we are genuinely fond of the American people. We are conscious of a kinship and a friendliness with and toward them. We are aware that, as individuals, they are frequently more aggressive and efficient than ourselves. We like their courtesy, their generosity, their candor, and their charm.

In short, if it were necessary to go back to those dead days when international progress depended entirely upon political alliances, we could think of no better country to tie ourselves to than the United States of America.

"I hate to delay your pursuit of the German army to Berlin, but is it too much to ask if you'll go scouting and try to capture our children for supper?"

But all this is quite beside the point. We are emerging from a political age into a social and economic age. And politics, if the war teaches us anything, will be no more than a mechanism for translating social and economic ideals into action.

For all practical purposes, then, so long as our social and economic doctrine is sound, it should not make the slightest bit of difference whether we send our representatives to Ottawa or Washington.

As a matter of fact, if we emerge from the war so dead to social and economic realities that such a thing would make a difference, we will have lost the war.

How can we defend our British imperialism if political relations continue to matter very much?

We have said that British imperialism is a social, economic and cultural thing rather than a political thing. If this is not so, our British imperialism is indefensible.

We have declared our British imperialism to be founded on the Greek rather than the Roman pattern. What did Greek imperialism know of political ties? It was an educating and enlightening organization that free peoples held together by mutual ties of progress, culture, trade and education.

If that does not define the British Empire the British Empire might just as well close up shop. And all the criticism that has been levelled against us will be proved true.

As a matter of fact, under the Greek notion of imperialism, to which we profess to adhere, political relationships are utterly unimportant. It is social and economic unity that counts. On that basis, then, the United States, whatever her political criticism, is still a part of the British Empire.

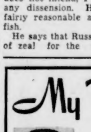

The sooner we begin to think along those lines and to enlarge and sanctify our loyalty within that fashion, the sooner shall we get down to the only basis that will build a new and better world.

Annexation is only a relic of that malignant nationalism that has plagued the earth for the past thousand years and more.

It is out of the picture. It is small-time archaic conception.

If, at the end of the war, Canada, Great Britain and the United States are not closely tied up together, economically and socially and ideologically, that their political relationships are not of the slightest importance, then the new world will neither be safe nor fit to live in.

My Day

BY ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK CITY.—This is the day on which the Victory Book campaign for 1943 starts. There is one thing certain for each one of us can do, no matter how busy we are. We can go through our bookshelves and send to the headquarters in our particular locality, the books which we feel will be enjoyed by the officers and men of the army, navy, marines and merchant marine.

I found in Great Britain that the boys in the hospitals wanted every possible kind of book. Some of them were studying for special occupations, like radio and auto mechanics. Many of them wanted to know more about astronomy. Some of them even want to study geology. All of them need entertainment, and the detective or western story, full of thrill and excitement, will take them out of the happenings of the moment, which may be difficult today.

Many of us are trying to learn something about the countries in which they find themselves, and so biographies, books of travel, historical novels that are up to date, will be interesting to the men in our armed forces.

If each one of us does our best, this campaign will be a success, but unless each one of us contributes, there will not be enough books. If you were far away from home, books would be the things that would remind you most to you in your leisure time. So, think of those who defend us in camps, on ships and on fighting fronts all over the world, and let's get busy today and provide the biggest collection of victory books we have ever had in this country.

I am always interested in the little Christmas books, which are published every year. I was specially fortunate this year, because some friends in Texas sent me Hendrik Van Loon's "The Message of the Bells," or what happened to us on Christmas Eve. It is a simple short narrative with charming illustrations and I am glad Dr. Van Loon heard his "own" bells for it must have given home for his Holland which he so dearly loves and has worked for during these years of her suffering.

Fannie Hurst sent me her little story of a Christmas Dream in Washington. Into it she has woven the faith and hope of every American when a child is born. We pray that its chances for real opportunity and development shall be equal to those of any other child in this free nation of ours.

Last but not least, is Alexander W. Armour's "The Warming Experience." I imagine the lesson he wants to convey is that nothing ever happens to any of us which we cannot bear if we keep our head in the proper spirit. Many of us may need to remember that in the course of the year.

Communists Immune to Jail

Membership in Illegal Group Seems to Protect Against Punishment

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK.—Or late it seems that a card of membership in the traitorous organization known as the Communist Party or a record of affiliation with avowed traitors of this group, is a practically safe certificate of immunity from punishment for murder, arson, treason and other crimes.

W. Pegler

The latest affair which supports such a belief is the release from prison of Alexander Hoffman, general manager of the 29 Cleaners and Dyers, of the C.I.O. by Governor Poletti, during Poletti's brief term as interim governor of New York. Hoffman had served less than eight months of a sentence for arson which was to have run from two to five years. There was absolutely no doubt that Hoffman was guilty of a crime which imperils the lives of firemen and others and, because of the vulnerability of innocent human beings and the cowardly stealth of the act, is placed among the most despicable offenses. In order to drive unwilling workers into an organization subject to the rule of Communism, which, Attorney-General Biddle has identified as a traitorous force in the United States, Hoffman conspired to start fires in dry cleaning plants, the intent being that the owners, for the sake of peace and immunity, would force the workers to join his union.

One witness against Hoffman testified that Hoffman said there would be "more" fires if he did not sign a union contract on behalf of a chain of dry cleaning stores. Hoffman appealed to the highest court of the state and lost and went to prison last May.

Sidney Hillman, a man whom President Roosevelt selected as a fit person to direct the war labors of the American people, was among those who interceded for Hoffman, whose union is affiliated with Hillman's. Hoffman, returned to his office at union headquarters, said he had continued to hold union office during his imprisonment.

Poletti's action was meritorious and irregular. He took advantage of his short term of less than one month as governor, between the resignation of Herbert H. Lehman and the inauguration of Thomas E. Dewey, to turn out a dangerous criminal without consulting either there was nothing magical about the act of the Governor, nothing unusual or unexpected about it. He thought it important to impress our own forces with that fact. We overrate the enemy's weapons when as a matter of fact, so these amateur officers insisted all day long, we have some weapons that are unmatched anywhere.

General Lesley H. Campbell, chief of ordnance, went around with us and you could see he was very proud of what they were showing us.

At the end, General Campbell said the ordnance department had to depend on industry and on scientists to work with ordnance as a team. He said: "We make no bones about giving credit to industry for what it has done to help us. If the Nazis catch us and get ahead of us, it will be because we of ordnance the long-haired scientists we've got working for us and because we have fallen down on our job. But I don't think that is going to happen."

You can see, when you meet such a proving ground, or when you go into the laboratories there, or into the plants as at Detroit, that it is a team effort. It has to be. The government can't do it alone. Neither could industry.

Other government agencies could learn from the way ordnance and industry have organized to work together. General Campbell ought to be asked to give some lectures to other administrative officials on his technique.

Relations between government and private activities will be increasing as the war goes on. The technique is most important and it is something that democratic government still has to learn.

Resolve to Cast Nothing Away

Good Care Prolongs the Life of Every Article We Use

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

As we sat around the radio New Year's week and listened to the resolutions for renewed efforts for victory, we realized the long road we have come in the past 40 months of war.

Now is the time to get out a pencil and paper and do a bit of thinking about how we can use how much more we can do to help.

This year there must be many new sacrifices. We have hardly begun to feel the war in our daily living, only in the year ahead with new curbs on production and expansion of the rationing system will we begin to realize full how much we must do to keep the things we have usable for the duration.

We must conserve and take care of everything in our home—from the ironing cord that is frayed, to the sheet slowly wearing thin in the middle. Every care should be taken to keep these home necessities repaired and useful rather than depending upon replacements — for the manpower needed to produce new goods is more urgently needed in war production, not to mention shortage of materials which also are conscripted for victory.

Fortitude

The virtues which made our grandmothers and great-grandmothers survive in pioneer days need to be cultivated again, and the modern idea of immediate obsolescence scrapped for the duration at least.

Resolve that for 1943 you will not waste. Ask all those under your roof to make the same resolution, and include in it the gentle use of the things now in your home. Nothing is so damaging to the life of any goods as careless, hard use and neglect of small repairs that needed only, when they first occur. The old adage "a stitch in time saves nine" has never been more apt than today.

The materials that were used in your kitchen cabinet, your refrigerator, your rugs, your blankets, your pots and pans, your linens, your enameled ware, and your furniture, as well as the workmen who made them, are all needed now by the armed forces. Remember we were told somewhere ago that it requires seventeen men in the factories for every service man. Therefore the good care of these things to prolong their life.

Stoves Precious

Hinges, latches and doors can't hold up if you treat them roughly. Enamel surfaces scratch and chip. On your stove, on your sink and your furniture, as well as the workmen who made them, are all needed now by the armed forces. Remember we were told somewhere ago that it requires seventeen men in the factories for every service man. Therefore the good care of these things to prolong their life.

Stoves Precious

Hinges, latches and doors can't hold up if you treat them roughly. Enamel surfaces scratch and chip. On your stove, on your sink and your furniture, as well as the workmen who made them, are all needed now by the armed forces. Remember we were told somewhere ago that it requires seventeen men in the factories for every service man. Therefore the good care of these things to prolong their life.

Keep removable pans beneath surface units clean, and to get longer and better use from your stove, keep the oven panels clean. The grease that splatters when roasting meats can be wiped off with paper and then washed away by washing the inside surface with a cloth wrung from sudsy water. The same treatment should be given the broiler.

Wash the bright metal trimming on your stove with soap and water and dry with a soft piece of cloth. Avoid using metal polish of any kind on nickel or chromium plated trim.

Costumes Needed

There is hardly a thing that cannot be made useful today—even the old costume jewelry in your attic trunks. These and other stage properties might be greatly appreciated by the entertainment board of the war Services Council for Northern Alberta, for use in skits and plays given at the various training centres.

The discarded bits of cloth, old buttons, and old clothes that you once thought fit only for the old paper, are solicited by many relief organizations to be re-made into wearables for victims of bombings abroad.

The fats, and drippings of grease from your cooking, are needed by the government for making gun powder and glycerine. The smallest amount is worth saving. We sure to use a tin container for this salvage as glass will not do.

The important thing is that you, and those in your home, realize that 1943 will bring a new challenge. There is a daily effort to be made at home, in assisting the soldier on the battle front, in the right use of the goods you enjoy.

Do not buy new things, unless you need them badly. Do not demand extra services from your tradesman.

Salvage everything you can and do not throw it away unless it is entirely useless. Remember the needs of every member of your family.

Allied Weapons Best

German Vehicles Are Very Much Overrated, Is Discovery at Station

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

WASHINGTON. — At Aberdeen proving grounds the other day, a group of us saw what the ordnance department is doing to provide the best weapons used in this war.

The new little carbine is a neat number to replace the old automatic pistol. It can kill accurately at 300 yards, and is going in quantity to parts although production began only a few months ago. The enemy has nothing like it for close-up action.

Raymond Clapper

We saw the amazing weapon known as the "Bazooka." That's all they will at first be told. They showed us new secret weapons that make the American soldier the most deadly individual in the war.

We who have the highest standard of living in all the world, see to it that our men have the best, whether for living or killing.

Rommel's 88-millimeter gun that became a legend when he was winning in Egypt last summer, is an exploded legend at Aberdeen proving ground. They fired one of Rommel's guns for us. It was in the sand-colored desert camouflage. Ordnance officers pointed out that the gun was of three-piece construction. It was abandoned long ago in American ordnance. Beside it were fired several of our 90-millimeter anti-aircraft guns. They make the German 88 and the German 105s look awkward. Our officers say it was the method of construction that made Rommel's 88-millimeter gun so sensational last summer.

We pass him with a 105-millimeter howitzer, mounted on a M3 tank chassis. That's the tank killer, or what the Germans call "Thunder Priest." It went into action against Rommel last Fall and helped drive him out of Egypt. But what that one the other day, too, and all of the other weapons including the giant 16-inch naval rifle which belches its mass projectile out of sight over the horizon.

Armored vehicles, our own, and Russia and German, were shown. Some of our own, including experimental models, were run over the washboard track. We ask to ride in a man jeep, which is a fragile car. Actually it is the two-cylinder Volks Car that Hitler was going to distribute to the German people. This German car is a frail, weak little vehicle compared to the tough American jeep.

They study many captured German weapons at Aberdeen. One of our ordnance officers said that the judge or the prosecutor in the case of the New York parole authorities. Instead, he accepted the character references of Hoffman's fellow workers and of the dry cleaning industry, itself, which had given the testimony upon which he was convicted in the first place and which has a highly questionable reputation.

Poletti flouted the proven facts in declaring that Hoffman enjoyed "an excellent reputation prior to his conviction." The truth was that he had been indicted before on charges of using stink bombs and the witness who testified to the threat of "more fires" said the union had bombed homes, thrown acid on windows and kerosene on clothing and assaulted workers.

The most flagrant previous recognition of Communism as a ground for lenity to a criminal of traitorous hue was President Roosevelt's commutation of the sentence of Earl Browder, chief of the conspiracy against the United States, last spring. Although it was urged that Browder's sentence was too severe, the president rejected the claim and frankly injected politics into Browder's case in saying that Browder's premature release would "tend to promote national unity."

Previously, in San Francisco, Sam Darcy, alias Darcy, a Russian born in the Ukraine, was paroled from the bench by Superior Judge Schonfeld, upon his conviction of perjury in swearing that his name was Darcy, and that he was born in New York. Darcy, as he told himself, had had the effrontery to run for governor and had fomented riots in the guise of strikes. In August, 1935, while he was in Russia as a delegate to the Internationale he was indicted. He was caught in Philadelphia in September, 1939, and extradited, after a struggle, in November, 1940. Six years after his indictment his trial began.

Judge Schonfeld accepted Darcy's assurance that he would not advocate overthrow of the government by violence but said he might remain a member of the Communist party which, as Attorney General Biddle has aid, is committed to this end.

Also in California, with the assistance of Culbert L. Olson, then governor, three murderers, officials of the Marine Firemen's, Oilers', Tenders and Wipers' Assn., were paroled after serving four years and 10 months of terms up to life for shooting the brutal murder of George Alberts, chief engineer of the steamship Point Lobos, who was beaten to death by hired assassins. Alberts had opposer the Communists on his ship and the three murderers were convicted on the testimony of one of the hire lings to prove to the jury that the three men hired him and one other to do the job. The witness who squealed also was convicted of second degree assult. He was a dangerous man. The other actual killer escaped to Russia.

New Drug

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN

Sir Arthur MacNalty, former chief medical officer of the ministry of health and board of education, speaking in London, said that recent research work encouraged the hope that a drug might e manually be found which would destroy tubercle bacillus in man.

Chicago's Prices Highest in 5 Years

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 — (AP) — Wheat prices rose 2 cents a bushel today to the highest level in more than five years, coming within about 4 cents of the best quotations posted in the futures market here since 1929.

Buying of mills and professional traders, stimulated partly by flour demand and the President's forecast of military gains this year, accounted for the upturn.

Wheat closed 1½-1¾ higher, corn 1⅛-1⅜ up, oats ⅜-¾ up, rye 1--1⅜ higher.

Winnipeg Wheat Trading is Quiet

WINNIPEG, Jan. 7—(CP)—Wheat trade was quiet on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today with the May future holding steady at 93⅛ cents a bushel.

Sale of 1,500,000 bushels Canadian wheat for export to the United Kingdom featured market news.

Cash wheat trade was thin with only odd cars trading on an all rail basis to eastern buyers. Keen American demand developed in cash oats but scarcity of offerings limited trade.

Sales in oats futures were estimated at 1,000,000 bushels. This heavy trade caused the May future to climb to the 50 cent mark. Around 750,000 bushels barley futures sold to shippers but prices eased slightly. Rye trade was light and routine.

Country marketings at Winnipeg yesterday totalled 703,000 bushels compared with 267,000 bushels last year.

Grain inspections at Winnipeg yesterday amounted of 231 cars against 52 cars a year ago.

Two "Kills" Likely

Three Axis Submarines Blasted Off East Coast By Lone Canadian Plane

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—(CP)—At least one German submarine is expected to sink no more ships as a result of the best of three attacks against U-boats off the east coast by a Canadian aircraft called "Kayo" in a period of 113 hours.

Flt. Lt. M. J. Belanger, D.F.C., of Vancouver, was skipper of the coastal patrol ship during this run of good hunting and his crew consisted of PO. J. H. Houser, Hamilton, Flt. Sgt. D. C. Bullock, Winnipeg, and Sgt R. M. Cameron, Springhill, N.S., with Cpl. P. N. LeMarre of Montreal, a ground crew radio technician, along for one of the attacks.

For the three attacks Belanger received the Distinguished Flying Cross in the New Year's honors list and the citation added a few details to the official report on the operations.

THREE ATTACKS

He was credited with "inflicting damage on one, probably sinking a second and possibly sinking a third" submarine. Two of the attacks were in a period of 18 hours which he was on continuous duty.

An announcement from Air Minister Power's office today described the best of the attacks as "promising", but the commanding officer's summary of the engagement said:

"In view of the photographic evidence which shows the submarine bracketed by depth charges and in the light of ensuing events it is reasonable to assume that the U-boat has been destroyed. Unless subsequent evidence proves differently the crew of the aircraft should be credited with a kill."

The official summary of the principal action reported today said:

"This aircraft sighted the wake of a U boat off the starboard bow. The aircraft dived into attack and released a stick of depth charges across the U-boat's track while the U boat was only partially submerged.

"The depth charges were seen to explode all around the hull, slightly ahead of the conning tower. The U-boat's hull came up out of the water and all forward motion stopped. It then appeared to settle straight down.

"The sea was very rough under the influence of a 31-knot wind and no evidence of wreckage, oil or air bubbles was observed during the time the aircraft remained in the area. When running up to attack 700 rounds of machine-gun ammunition were fired at the U-boat, which was of the 740-ton class, painted light grey."

CLOSE TO CANADA

The submarine was cruising "close to the Canadian shore" at the time but the exact location was not given in the announcement. Neither was the date of the attack except it was "in the latter part of 1942."

The first of the three attacks credited to Belanger was when he spotted a "white streak" on the sea.

Depth charges were dropped and as the plane circled, the sub's conning tower was still showing so they fired a few rounds with the machine gun "for good measure." Weather conditions prevented any check for wreckage.

Some 14 hours later "Kayo" was again on patrol. The crew knew a submarine was about since some had been sighted during the day.

"It was just about five o'clock when I spotted him, off starboard, just as he surfaced," said Belanger. "We caught him flat-footed. We let go the bombs while his deck was still awash and one of them dropped right beside him. As we came about on the return circuit we could see the conning tower just disappearing and eight minutes later oil bubbles appeared."

FIND OIL SLICK

The next day an oil slick was reported in the area by another aircraft.

The crew rated as "best of the three" the last attack, described by the air ministry as "promising."

Flt. Sgt. Bullock took the pictures on which the attack was appraised and said he nearly broke Belanger's neck trying to get a shot through the skipper's window.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

THE R.C.A.F. boys put a decided crimp last night in the chances of Canadians being in first place in the City Junior Hockey League standings at Jan. 15, the cut-off date when each of the teams shall have played six of their 12 scheduled games.

As matters now stand the E.A. Cees are the best bet to get under the wire at the head of the procession, for they have played one game less than Canadians and their five points give them a margin of two over the Canucks and three over "M" Depot.

The present league leaders have a pair of games left with the airmen and one with Canadians before the above date and if they win one, they can't do any worse than wind-up in a tie and even then the Canadians must capture both of their remaining fixtures. E.A.C. and Canadians play on Saturday night.

JUVENILES DO WELL

HARRY ALLEN, current leader of snipers in the junior circuit last night boosted to 13 the total of successive games in which he has picked up points. In addition to snaring a pair of counters Harry's checking was also of help to the R.C.A.F.

Juveniles and ex-juveniles played a big part in the game Ken Cox and Jim Fleming, both only 17 years old, were the chief threats for Canadians, each getting two goals. Ken also shared in two others and Jim in one. Glen Gray, also still eligible for juvenile hockey, had an assist and did good defensive work.

Bill McLennan who turned in a stellar performance in the nets for Airmen and Frankie Baer, Nick Krawciuk, Bill Dawe and Cliff McAuley of Canadians and Don Douglas of "M" Depot are all juvenile grads.

DEPOT CAGERS UNBEATEN

NO. 3 "M" Depot still maintains an unbeaten record in city basketball circles, but the boys had to make use of overtime to edge out the Y.M.C.A. 41-40 at McDougall gym on Wednesday night.

Jim Bardsley, unquestionably one of the finest cagers in Canada, contributed 14 points for the R.C.A.F. Les Neilson was high for the Y with 15 and Don Blue was right next with 14.

Inter-Service hockey stars tonight with Navy at No. 4 I.T.S. and Army at No. 3 A.O.S. There is also interservice basketball tonight and two hoop games are scheduled in the City Men's League.

Three Tie for Second

Harry Allen Tops List Scorers in Junior Hockey

Back in his usual spot at the head of the list, Harry Allen is the leading scorer in the City Junior Hockey League with three goals and five assists for a total of eight points. Allen started out the season with E.A.C., but has played the last two games with the "M" Depot.

Roy Brandreth, R.C.A.F., with five goals and one assist, and Bing Merluk, Canadians and Hassie Young, E.A.C. each with three goals and three assists are all tied for second with six points.

Frankie Baer and Ken Cox, both of Canadians are next in the standings with five. Jim Fleming and Glen Gary of Canadians, "Brick" Edmunds, R.C.A.F. and Fred Smitten and Ab Superstein are all tied for the next spot having four points.

V. Fleming and Ab Superstein have spent the most time in the penalty box.

Following is the complete list:

French Now in Navy

Brooklyn Again Calls Larry

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Larry French, Brooklyn Dodger hurler, will enter the naval reserve Friday as a lieutenant but he can't get away from Brooklyn.

The husky National League southpaw will leave Sunday to become a supply officer in the Brooklyn Navy yard.

"It seems I can't get away from Brooklyn," French commented. "I will be in the 'home sail' this time."

French won 15 games last season and lost only four. He is a veteran of 14 years in the majors and has participated in three world series. He has won 197 games during his professional baseball career and lost 71.

"My only disappointment will be that I probably never will be able to pass the mark of 200 victories," French said. "But this deal I am going into is most important right now. Baseball doesn't matter."

French started his professional baseball career with the Portland team of the Pacific Coast League in 1926. He joined Pittsburgh Pirates in 1929 and has been in the National League ever since. The Pirates traded him to Chicago Cubs at the close of the 1934 season and Brooklyn claimed him on waivers in August 1941.

He holds the National League mark for shutouts with 40, and last season he led league pitchers in earned runs. He has won 166 games during his major league career against 65 losses.

Airmen Count Five Times in Opening Period

R.C.A.F. Juniors Beat Canadians 7-5

Brandreth Bangs Home Three Goals

Taking a surprise five-goal lead in the first period backed up by sensational goal-tending of Bill McLennan, No. 3 "M" Depot handed the Canadians a 7-5 setback in Wednesday night's Junior Hockey League game at 119 Street rink.

Roy Brandreth, shifty left-winger from Calgary played a big part in the R.C.A.F. victory by scoring four goals in addition to collecting an assist. But his performance was no better than that of Ken Cox for the Canadians who also picked up four points, two from goals.

Harry Allen also checked in with a pair of counters for the Airmen and Jim Fleming went one point better for Canadians by adding an assist to his brace of markers.

Other R.C.A.F. goals went to "Brick" Edmunds and L. V. Gibson, the Medicine Hat junior, while Earl Chisholm scored one for the losers.

The R.C.A.F. boys put on their best show of the year and although they were outplayed for the greater part of the game, capitalized on scoring chances while the getting was good and piled up an overwhelming lead within which they could afford to coast.

Three of the first four goals were of a decidedly soft variety. In fact the Airmen counted three times out of their first four shots, two which never left the ice and were from no distance out.

It was not Bill Lancaster's night especially in the first period and for part of the second, but he then settled down and turned in a good performance for the balance of the game.

Edmunds opened the scoring at 3:30 in the first period the puck sliding along the ice into the right hand corner of the net. Dutchak drew an assist.

Gibson combined with Brandreth for the second a minute later, the Medicine Hat boy's easy backhander finding a resting place in the net. Brandreth made the count 3-0 at 5:30 when he shot from the cornered and took a pass from Don Douglas.

The fourth R.C.A.F. goal was a nice effort. Bob Adair carrying the puck down the right boards and passing out from the corner to Brandreth who finished the play perfectly by drawing out Lancaster.

The fifth goal just before the period ended was also well executed with Brandreth completing a play with Douglas and Adair and the Canadian goalie was never given a chance to make the stop.

Half way through the next session Harry Allen, the league's leading scorer raised the R.C.A.F. total to 6-0 driving the puck past Lancaster from a scramble.

Jim Fleming netted the first counter for Canadians at 10:32 on a pass from Ken Cox at 10:32 and the same pair repeated a minute later, Fleming's fast shot finding an opening through a forest of legs.

Allen really sewed up the game at 12:30 when he scored from a scramble, the Canadian goalie being down at the time.

Just before the whistle Glen Gray passed out from behind the net to Cox to make the figures read 7-3.

Canadians did most of the pressing in the third period, but only managed to turn on the red light twice. Chisholm scoring from Fleming and Merluk just before two minutes and Cox converting Merluk's pass at 13:00.

Exhibition Basketball

Bardsley Leads "M" Depot To 41-40 Defeat of Y.M.C.A.

No. 3 "M" Depot scoring five points in an overtime session chalked up another win as they edged out Y.M.C.A. 41-40 in an exhibition game in the McDougall school gym last night.

The Airmen led by Jim Bardsley with 14 points and Fred Bryant with seven overcame a lead obtained by the Y.M. in the first three quarters. This ended the regulation time with a 36-36 tie, forcing the teams into overtime and wound up with "M" Depot still undefeated so far this season.

Les Neilson who scored 15. Don Blue 14, Reg Robertson seven and Bobb Parr four accounted for the losers 40 points.

The "Y" team led the way from the start when they out counted the Depot squad 6-4 in the first quarter and hooped 14 points to the same number as the winners, in the second to bring the half time score to 20-18 in Y.M.C.A. favor.

The "Y" men continued scoring in the third frame when they hooped eight points to the Airmen's six. This lead, however, was equalled in the fourth stanza with the latter counting 12 to the losers eight to end the scheduled time in a 36-36 deadlock.

The overtime session was close and saw the "M" Pool score five while the losers could only hoop four.

Abbotts Lose to Notre Dame 6-3

REGINA, Jan. 7.—(CP)—The league leading Regina Abbotts took a 6-3 beating from the tail-end Notre Dame Hounds Wednesday night in a Southern Junior Hockey League game.

Chuck McCullough, star Notre Dame winger, fired four goals and Norbert Lubeck, a recruit from Saskatoon, picked off the other pair.

Abbott scorers were Russ Kozak with two and Les Barrett.

Farewell Dinner To Flt.-Lt. Sutton

Twenty-five friends and former golfing pals from Edmonton Golf and Country Club had a farewell dinner Wednesday night for Flt. Lt. Harold Sutton, D.F.C., who is returning shortly to active duty overseas.

The young airmen will also be remembered as the great kicker for the Eskimos a few years back when this city was represented in senior football.

Flt. Lt. Sutton was the recipient last night of a suitable gift, the presentation being made on behalf of those at the dinner by Gordon E. Smeltzer.

Association to Follow Lead of Major Leagues

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Head men of the American Association, who heaved a sigh a relief when the major leagues adopted a schedule and spring training program acceptable to the office of defence transportation, Wednesday approved a similar plan for their own 1943 season.

They decided at a special meeting to open their 154-game program April 20 16 days later than last year's start, and close Sept. 19 one week later than 1942.

A survey discussed four of the eight clubs know where they'll train and the other four agreed to do spring conditioning within the governs territorial limits designated by the big league Tuesday.

Minneapolis will train at Terre Haute, Ind.; Louisville at home; Indianapolis possibly in its own park; and Milwaukee within a 25-30 mile radius of its home site.

Former Tiger

HAMILTON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Eugene (Duke) Wilkis, wrestling referee and former football player, was found dead in bed at his home here yesterday.

He played inside wing for Hamilton Tigers of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union more than two decades ago before quitting the stadium to referee wrestling matches.

A sister, Mrs. Dorothy Graves, lives in Winnipeg.

Maher Scores for Losers

Calgary Mustangs Win 5-1 Over Lethbridge Bombers

CALGARY, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Two goals in less than a minute late in the first period when LAC. Alex Pringle was serving a penalty proved too great an obstacle for Lethbridge Bombers to overcome, with the result that PO. Tiny Thompson's R.C.A.F. Mustangs scored a 5-1 triumph in their Alberta Service Senior Hockey League game here last night.

The victory advanced Mustangs to the top of the league standing one point ahead of Currie Army skelet. It was Bombers' fourth loss of the season.

PO. Burt Scharfe, PO. Bob Marshall, LAC. (Scotty) McPherson, Cpl. Jack Adams and PO. Hedy Hunter, scored for the winners, while LAC. Billy Maher accounted for the losers' lone counter.

Mustangs led 2-0 at the end of the first period; boosted their advantage to 3-0 in the second and outscored Bombers 2-1 during the third.

Due to a lengthy layoff Bombers were below form and, with Mustangs having command throughout, they too played listless hockey at times.

Well on in the third period LAC. Pete Slobodian and LAC. Lyle Swaney staged a mild set-to. LAC. M. Michaluk who did his best to part them was unfortunate in being waved to the penalty bench with the other two. Swaney was given an additional 10 minute misconduct penalty for protesting to the referee.

Bombers leave for Red Deer to play Sgt. Riley Mullen's Army Wheelers a league game on Thursday night.

N.B.A. Issues Quarterly List Fighter Ratings

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The National Boxing Association today announced its regular quarterly ratings of fighters in all divisions, along with a statement from President Abe Greene that "full responsibility" for "cleavage" in boxing championships lies directly with the New York State Athletic Commission.

Most pointed factor in the ratings was that of the top seven men in each of the four senior divisions—welterweight through heavyweight—a total of more than half are in one branch or another of the armed forces and thereby out of active competition for the duration. Altogether 17 of these 28 tussilers are in service, headed by the four champions—heavyweight Joe Louis, lightheavyweight Gus Lesnevich middleweight Tony Zale and welterweight Red Cochrane.

In its ratings, the N.B.A. gave recognition to two Canadians. Johnny Greco of Montreal was listed among the "logical contenders" for the vacant lightweight championship and Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., was named as an "outstanding boxer" in the featherweight division.

Greene referred directly to the lightweight and bantamweight title situations in "pointing a finger" at the New York commission. The New York body has suspended Sammy Angott's adjudicated lightweight throne to Beau Jack without the benefit of a previously-agreed-upon tournament. In the bantamweight mixup, the New York commission refused to recognize Manuel Ortiz after he whipped Lou Salica in a 10-rounder in California. Since then Ortiz's position also was withdrawn from Salica, but still the Manhattan fistic fathers refused to put the crown on Ortiz.

"How can the public have faith in such contortions?" Greene ask ed. "If we are to have boxing, then personal gratification, prejudice and influence should be eliminated."

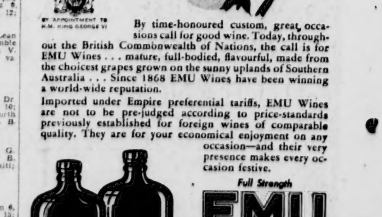

The ratings left the lightweight championship vacant, named Beau Jack the "leading contender" and then grouped the "logical contenders" 11 other 135-pounders, all of whom are eligible for the national tourney the N.B.A. has planned. Under this plan, the tournament survivor would meet Jack for the title.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(BUP)—We were standing in the back-court at Stillman's gymnasium, talking to Lieut. Benny Leonard of the U.S. Maritime Service, when we noticed a big guy in a gray suit drift in through the entrance. He carried a large, flat pasteboard under his arm.

We knew we had seen the big fellow someplace before. Then recognition dawned. We asked Benny: "Isn't that the King?"

"Yes, that's the king all right; that's the old Kingfish himself," Benny replied.

Kingfish Levinski came over to us, with a strange shuffling walk and shook hands. He was so fat he seemed bloated. He looked as if he were packing about 240 pounds. We asked: "How's things?"

"Things alright," he mumbled, with a rather vacant smile. He talked like a man with wooden lips and as though his tongue was too large for his mouth.

What was the Kingfish doing these days?—the chap who fought for 11 years in the ring.

KING IS SALESMAN

"SELLIN' neckties—see—" Proudly, he opened the box and displayed his wares. "King Levinski specials," he said, pointing at the little tag on one of the cravats.

As the big, battle scarred fellow wandered away through the throng with his box, Lieut. Leonard said:

"That's a helluva note, isn't it? There's a man who made a fortune with his fists—boasts more than $400,000. And now he's selling neckties. Why is it that fighters can't keep money?"

"You should know, Benny," we told the former lightweight champion in the blue greatcoat with the gold on the shoulders. "You blew plenty."

"I didn't blow my money," Benny denied. "I lost it in investments. But it adds up to the same. It's lucky for me I did pretty well on my comeback.

EARN MONEY FAST

"YOU know I've figured out that fighters always wind up broke because most of them were very poor boys to start with. Then they make a lot of quick dough when they're too young to have any brains. You take Levinsky over there. I'll bet you're thinking he's punchy. He's not punchy. He always acted that way. He's got more brains now than he had when he was fighting—because he's older and more matured. He's been making a living selling neckties for about a year now.

He tried wrestling after he quit fighting, and when he quit wrestling, the only thing he could do was sell ties or go into one of the rackets. He took the ties. And you've got to respect him for his choice."

We contacted the King again, and Benny asked him point-blank: "Say King, what was the low down on your fight with Louis at Chicago? Did you quit that night?"

Levinsky grinned and muttered: "Huh. I don't know—honestly. Guess I jus' went on a sit down strike."

WASN'T AFRAID

They were talking about the night of Aug. 7, 1935, when Levinsky suffered a technical knockout in the first round while sitting on the ring ropes in Chicago's Comiskey Park. Louis had floored him three times. When the King rose the third time, he settled back into the ropes like a man seeking rest in an arm chair.

"I don't think you actually quit," said Benny. "A fellow who had as many fight as you, against tough guys like Lomski, Slattery, Hudkins, Paulino, Mickey Walker, Maxie Baer and even Dempsey, couldn't have been afraid of anyone. I think you just froze up from nerves because you'd been hearing so much and reading so much about what a killer Louis was. I've seen a lot of boys freeze up like that—boys who had plenty of courage, plenty of heart."

"Did it ever happen to you Benny?" we asked.

The lieutenant shook his head thoughtfully. "No, I can't recall that it ever did. I was never very imaginative."

Yanks Favor New Jersey

N.Y. Ball Clubs Looking For Nearby Training Sites

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP)—New York's baseball clubs began an industrious search for nearby training sites Wednesday with the Yankees favoring New Jersey and the Giants looking toward New England or Upstate New York.

Edward G. Barrow, President of the Yanks, said he discussed several prospective camp sites by telephone and that today his chief scout, Paul Krichell, will inspect facilities offered at Asbury Park, Lakewood, and New Brunswick, N.J.

"If I could be sure of the weather I would have the Yanks train right in Yankee Stadium," declared Barrow, "and I wouldn't care how hot or cold it was—just so it was dry. I don't recall a single year we couldn't have trained at home with the season starting as late as, it will this year.

"But we're going to look around and I'm going to have Joe McCarthy come down here before we make a final decision."

Mel Ott, manager of the Giants, arrived yesterday from his home at New Orleans and immediately went into a huddle with Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, about training plans. They said they hope to locate a college field house that will be suitable either in New England or Upstate New York and possibly transfer to polo grounds early in April.

Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, said he hopes the Army will decide it does not need the field house when it moves into Yale next week and added he will not disclose possible alternatives before the Army has made its decision.

Rickey said the Dodgers will open their training about March 10 or 15. Barrow predicted about March 25 for the Yanks and Stoneham indicated the Giants will get under way not later than March 28.

Ott expects to be here several days, inspecting training sites and seeing over player prospects and contracts with other officials of the Giants. He said five players joined the Armed Forces since the close of the season—Babe Young, Bob Carpenter, Willard Marshall, Dave Koslo and Hal Schumacher—and that he thinks Johnny Rucker has applied for a naval commission.

Four major league clubs have definately located their training sites. Detroit Tigers announced yesterday they will work at Evansville, Ind., Chicago Cubs and White Sox previously selected French Lick Springs, Ind., and Boston Red Sox chose Tufts University at Medford, Mass.

Tropical, Hialeah Quit

Gas Restrictions Cause Cancellation Florida Races

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Tropical Park Wednesday called off its horse race meeting, which had five more days to run, and Hialeah Park decided not to open its season next Wednesday in the face of the ban on pleasure driving.

Director of Racing Gerald Brady said Tropical President Henry L. Straus had told him in a telephone call from Baltimore to announce that the track will not open today.

"We are all soldiers, and orders are orders—ours not to reason why," Brady quoted Straus.

Tropical yesterday held the 15th card of its winter meeting. The track has suffered heavily from gasoline rationing and poor Miami tourist season, attendance and parimutuel both being far below normal.

Earlier, John C. Clark, president of the Miami Jockey Club, said Hialeah would not open for racing "until such time as there is full approval of the continuance of racing."

DEFER OPENING

The track was scheduled to open Jan. 13 for a 46-day meeting.

When informed of the advice of price administration ban on all pleasure driving, Clark issued the following statement:

"If being the desire of the government, as expressed by the office of price administration, that all motor transportation to race tracks cease, Hialeah Park will fit into the war pattern by suspending racing until such time as there is full approval of the continuance of racing."

Alex M. Baife, president of the State Racing Commission, said that "if people are denied gasoline for pleasure driving it means the end of racing in Florida."

One dog track operated by the Hollywood Kennel Club in Broward County, 18 miles north of Miami—cancelled its meeting after last night.

Other dog tracks and the Jai Alai Fronton decided to await developments before making announcements.

Hard hit were the hundreds of race track employees and other hundreds of grooms, exercise boys, trainers and other horsemen employed by the stables which had shipped about 1,500 thoroughbreds here for the Florida season.

WHIRLY AT HIALEAH

Among the performers stabled at Hialeah is Warren Wright's Whirly, away the greatest money winner in turf history and a nominee for the $25,000 Widener Stake, which was scheduled to close the Hialeah season March 6.

The transportation problem already had caused the major league baseball clubs to cancel their annual spring training visits to the state, and almost all of the usual golf, tennis and fishing tournaments have been called off.

In New Orleans however, the Fair Grounds race track management viewed the gasoline restrictions as reaching favorably to the banner racing season there which ends in March, Florida's loss being New Orleans' gain.

Although the ban does not apply to the Louisiana area, Julius G. Reeder, general manager of the Fair Grounds, said transportation was not a serious problem there since the plant is located within the city limits and is easily accessible by street car bus or by walking.

Browns' Hurler Balks

St. Louis Likely to Call Off Eldon Auker-Paul Dean Swap

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7.—(AP)—St. Louis Browns, it appeared last night, may attempt to cancel the deal which transferred Eldon Auker to Washington Senators in exchange for Paul Dean—if Auker definitely gives up baseball.

"Off hand, right now, I'd say it would," said the Browns' club president, William O. De Witt, last night after he was asked if the Auker-Dean trade would be cancelled in event Auker went through with announced intentions to quit baseball.

(Auker in an interview in Detroit Wednesday said he intends to quit baseball.)

Auker's retirement thus would block a gamble by the St. Louis club, which harbors pennant ambitions, that Dean would make good on his attempt to come back as a major league pitcher.

It was strictly a gamble, for to get the younger brother of the colorful Dizzy Dean, the Browns gave up the veteran mainstay of their hurling corps. Auker won 44 games and lost 39 in three seasons with the Browns.

Donald L. Barnes, the Brownie president who engineered the deal at the Chicago league meeting, was confident the 30-year-old righthander would have been a valuable acquisition.

Paul and Dizzy rolled chiefly on a blazing fast ball and both burned themselves out. Dizzy, traded to Chicago Cubs in 1938, quit baseball in 1941 and became a radio sports commentator in St. Louis. Paul kept trying.

In the Texas league he won 19 games last season while losing only seven with Houston. Reports from there said he was "pitching with his head," mixing curves and a change of pace.

HAS WAR JOB

DETROIT, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Elden Auker, 32-year-old submarine ball pitcher who was traded Wednesday by St. Louis Browns to Washington Senators in exchange for Paul (Daffy) Dean, said last night he intends to quit baseball and remain on his job in a Detroit war plant.

No Deferment For Athletes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Baseball and football players, along with other athletes, are not eligible for draft deferment because of their sports activities, the war manpower commission said Wednesday.

A statement issued in response to questions concerning the draft status of baseball players said Paul V. McNutt, commission chairman, did not question the value of baseball in building and sustaining morale but declared players would not be entitled to deferment for occupational reasons because sports could not be classed as essential to the support of the war.

Colt Set Back With Leg Injury

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Arbor Vita, winter-book favorite for the 1943 King's Plate owned by W. F. "Willie" Morrissey of Toronto, has suffered a leg injury which may set the colt several weeks behind in his training for the spring classic, it was learned Wednesday night.

Leading money-winning juvenile in Canada last year, Arbor Vita ended the season with a triumph in the sixth running of Mrs. Orpen's Cup and Saucer Handicap, Canada's richest race for two-year-olds

District News in Brief

Two Airmen Receive Wings

LLOYDMINSTER.—The Lloydminster district airmen have been graduated recently. Andrew Campbell Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Clarke of Streamstown was graduated with the rank of pilot officer at Brantford, Ont. He was born in Lloydminster, and received his education at the rural schools of Millerdale and Streamstown, and at the Strathcona and Normal schools in Edmonton. He joined the air force in 1941.

His father, James Clarke, is a veteran of the first Great War, and served overseas with the R.C.A.M.C. He is now with the R.C.A.F., stationed at Edmonton.

Second graduate from here is LAC. Gordon Eugene Chelev, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Cheley, who was graduated recently at Yorkton, Sask. He was born at Carnduff Sask., but received his education at the Westdene school here. He joined the R.C.A.F. in 1941.

C.W.A.C. WOMAN ARRIVES OVERSEAS

L.-Cpl. Dorothy Lillian Dickson, C.W.A.C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Parker of Blackfoot, has arrived overseas. Formerly a stenographer in the C.W.A.C. orderly room at Calgary, she has been anxious to get overseas, where she has now joined her husband, Pte. Raymond Dickson, 1st Canadian Workshop.

Commencing Saturday, Lloydminster stores will close at 7 p.m. Saturday evenings during the next three months. Half-holidays will be given each Wednesday at noon from January to August. . . . LAC. and Mrs. Ivor Stubbs have moved to Saskatoon. . . . AC1 and Mrs. Gordon Wilkie, North Battleford, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Philpotts. . . . Sgt. and Mrs. Harry Leonard, Edmonton, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Davies.

Food Industry To Distribute Savings Stamps

CALGARY, Jan. 7.—(CP)—The housewife will have her War Savings Stamps delivered with her groceries, beginning Feb. 1, when 40,000 Canadian food retailers join in "The Food Industry's March To Berlin", newest campaign to promote the sale of War Savings Stamps in Canada.

The Alberta provincial committee for the campaign, headed by D. A. Ross, Calgary, met here yesterday to discuss plans for the drive. Other members of the committee are H. M. Jenkins, W. J. Kraft, G. W. Dover, all of Calgary; R. G. Butchart, Medicine Hat; A. Neston, Lethbridge, and F. Reynolds, Edmonton.

$1,000,000 GOAL

Objective of the drive is the sale of $1,000,000 worth of War Savings Stamps in February through the retail outlets of the Canadian Food Industry from coast to coast.

Provinces have been assigned their quotas, with Alberta put down for $42,000. Other types of industry will be asked to cooperate in similar drives. The food industry, which numerically comprises the largest group of retail outlets in Canada, was chosen to lead the drives. Because of its close contact with consumers and its reputation as an aggressive merchandising force, the food group of Canada is expected to set the pattern for drives by other industrial groups.

Trade Improvement Plan Is Announced For Air Recruits

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—(CP)—A "trade improvement" plan under which every ground airman and airwoman in Canada will have an opportunity to take up-to-the-minute instruction in their particular trades was announced last night by R.C.A.F. headquarters.

The announcement said the plan is under direction of R.C.A.F. educational services. Objective is to improve the skill of personnel in all ground trades. Incidentally, it will make them eligible for higher pay.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

The accompanying map illustrates the developments in the middle Caucasus. The German drive which was planned to capture the Grozny oil fields has long been halted around the Terek River. In November the Germans renewed their drive and tried to outflank the Russian positions by sweeping into the Nalchik steppes and heading for Ordzhonikidze. A Russian counter-attack at the end of that month forced the Germans on to the defensive. Last month the Russians renewed their counter-offensive, drove the Germans back across the Terek River and hammered a deep wedge into the defence positions around Nalchik. Over the week-end, the Russians captured Mozdok and began swarming up both banks of the Terek River, rolling back the German flank. It now looks as though the enemy has been deprived of the use of this natural defensive barrier, and will be compelled to make a quick withdrawal toward Maikop.

Canuck Bomber Squadrons Eager for First Mass Attack

By LOUIS HUNTER

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Squadrons of the new Canadian bomber group, formation of which ranks as the outstanding achievement of the young but colorful R.C.A.F., are anxiously awaiting the moment they can launch their first heavy blow against the enemy.

Since formation of the group was announced some squadrons have been on operations but conditions have not been favorable for a mass attack on any Nazi target. It will be some time anyway before the group can feel the full weight of the new group—one expected eventually to be amongst the most powerful of bomber commands—because it is still in the throes of organization.

A number of squadrons brought into the group had been operational for some time and the rest of the group is being built around them. The squadrons of heavy and twin-engined aircraft will constitute Canada's most formidable air weapon.

STRENGTH SECRET

The exact strength of the new group cannot be disclosed for security reasons because the information would be of great value to the enemy. There are several bomber stations under its control and some of the stations can accommodate more than one squadron.

The group, under operational control of the R.A.F. bomber command, is the first of its kind ever organized outside those of the R.A.F. itself.

There are still some non-Canadian officers and personnel in the group, but as the organization proceeds the group will gradually become 100 per cent Canadian. It will be capable of carrying operations on its own or in conjunction with other groups.

An idea of the extent of Canada's contribution to Britain's air strength may be gained from the fact it is only 18 months since the first Canadian bomber squadron was formed in this country. The squadron, now commanded by Wing Cmdr. A. C. T. Clayton, D.F.C. and Bar, of Vancouver, has given the group a number of officers whose operational experience will be invaluable when the group hits its stride.

OPERATIONS OFFICER

The chief operations officer is Wing Cmdr. Johnny Fauquier, D.F.C., a bush flier from Ottawa who led the first Canadian squadron on many successful sorties. Sqdn. Ldr. A. L. Lambert, D.F.C. of Saint John, N.B., a veteran of about 30 operational flights and another member of the original R.C.A.F. bomber unit, is group navigation officer.

Sqdn. Ldr. W. H. Swetman, D.F.C. of Kapuskasing, Ont., came from the original squadron to become group training inspector.

Group Capt. C. R. Sieman, a native of Winnipeg whose home now is in Bonneville, Ont., is senior air staff officer. The senior administration officer is Wing Cmdr. C. G. Durham, M.M., of Calgary and the camp commandant Flt. Lt. H. W. Biggar of Westmount, Que. Sqdn. Ldr. D. H. N. Ashlin of Toronto is the intelligence officer.

The equipment officer is Sqdn. Ldr. C. B. Guest of Ottawa. The senior medical officer is Sqdn. Ldr. J. C. Whyte of Ottawa and armaments officer is Sqdn. Ldr. D. D. Shaw of Arnprior, Ont. In charge of flying control is Sqdn. Ldr. F. W. Stanley of Weston, Ont.

APPOINT CAPTAINS

Canadian group captains are assuming command of stations in the group and some of them recently have been installed. They include B. F. Johnson, C. Dunlap, C. A. D. Ross and J. L. Plant of Victoria, who recently returned from Ceylon where he commanded the Canadian Catalina Flying Boat squadron which patrolled the Bay of Bengal.

The squadron commanders are all men with exceptional operational experience both as leaders and airmen. Among them are Wing Commanders M. M. Fleming, D.F.C., of Ottawa, D. A. B. Bradshaw of London, Ont., J. M. W. St. Pierre of Ste. Eustache, Que., W. D. Ferris of Edmonton, S. S. Blanchard of Calgary and H. Carscallen of Hamilton, Ont.

Gable Receives His Wings as Aerial Gunner

TYNDALL FIELD, Fla., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Clark Gable quit the movies to try for a job as United States army aerial gunner—and that's how it's going to be.

Tall, tanned, and wearing the moustache which identified him in many a Hollywood production, Gable received yesterday the silver wings of an air force gunner, emblem of successful completion of Tyndall field's tough course.

Where he'll go now is something even Gable doesn't know —but he hopes it'll be to combat service.

Awarding the silver emblem to Gable, now a first lieutenant in the air force, Col. W. A. Maxwell described the former film star as "an excellent student."

10,000 Allied Prisoners Are Held by Japs

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(CP)—Canadian, British, American and Australian war prisoners totaling 10,000 are in prison camps in Japan, the British war office announced last night in a statement.

"Hong Kong is believed to be largely evacuated," the statement said. "It seems probable, however, that some 2,000 British and Canadian prisoners of war remain there."

Half of the prisoners in Japan are Americans, the statement said.

CONDITIONS FAIR

It said a Red Cross representative in Tokyo had visited three prison camps and reported conditions "comparatively satisfactory although some prisoners are suffering from tropical diseases."

(The Japanese hold some 1,500 Canadians as prisoners-of-war. They were part of the garrison of Hong Kong and were taken prisoner when the crown colony fell to the Japanese on Christmas Day, 1941.)

The prisoners, the statement continued, have been forced to adapt themselves to the Japanese diet consisting largely of rice, although there are some bread, fish and vegetables. It said the prisoners get very little meat.

Three Fliers Die In Bomber Crash

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 7.—(CP)—Three members of the Royal Canadian Air Force, thought to be stationed at Hagersville service flying training school, were instantly killed yesterday when their twin-engine Avro Anson bomber crashed into a field 12 miles south of here. Names were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Ottawa Warns Oil For Heating Out

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—(CP)— The munitions department, in a statement on behalf of Munitions Minister Howe last night issued a final warning to those who have taken no steps to change over to coal from the use of fuel oil for heating commercial, industrial and other buildings of a similar kind.

The statement said:

"Our fuel oil position is so grave that no temporary permits for the purchase of fuel oil for such buildings will be issued after Jan. 15, unless it can be proved to the satisfaction of the oil controller (G. R. Cottrelle), by that time, that the applicant is not responsible for failure to change over.

United States Authorities Check Their Unemployed

Simultaneous Survey Being Made Elsewhere: See Housing Easement

A study of the United States population in Edmonton is being made with a view of determining the number of visitors resident here who are not employed, Col. H. J. Woodbury, acting divisional engineer of the United States Army, stated Thursday.

Col. Woodbury stated that an order has been issued by United States authorities asking that the number of residents not employed be determined to enable them to formulate, if necessary, a policy that would ease the housing situation here.

He explained that the study in Edmonton is being carried out simultaneously with similar studies in other centres affected, as the housing situation is in no way restricted to Edmonton.

TO MAKE REPORT

Following the completion of the survey a report will be submitted to the United States authorities who will then decide what action is to be taken. This will probably take a week, Col. Woodbury stated.

It was pointed out that the order may ask that all relatives and dependents of United States citizens now stationed in Edmonton may be asked to return to the United States. It will not affect those relatives who are in employment.

An alternative possibility, it was learned from local sources, may be that those stationed here may not be affected but that those contemplating coming will be barred.

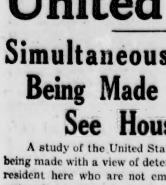

A local official, commenting on the proposed move, stated that if the order has an effect upon those already settled here, it will result in a temporary set-back, as many such families have been satisfactorily placed and others so well settled prefer sacrificing some of the comforts they would like, only to be able to have the families intact.

WOULD AFFECT WIVES

By far the most seriously affected would be the wives of the many men working in the city and at points north. It was learned that the number of whole families moving here is very small. Many have arranged to have their children complete their schooling in the United States while the parents came north.

In the meantime, the Emergency Accommodation Bureau is making favorable progress with finding accommodation for an expected influx of visitors who will be stationed here with a United States bridge firm.

2,086 Pounds Surplus Butter Alberta Homes

It has been reported to the rationing offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that there are 2,086 pounds of surplus butter on hand in Alberta homes. This total comes from records submitted to the offices in Edmonton and Calgary from fewer than 200 persons.

Edmonton has received reports of 1,226 pounds from 98 people, showing an average of about 12 pounds of butter laid away in each household. In Calgary the average is slightly lower, the average being about 10 pounds.

C. G. McKee, rationing superintendent, stated that there were some individual indications of persons having hoarded butter, but that many farmers report that the butter they have on hand is the customary stock ahead at this season.

All who report surplus stocks of butter to the rationing office of the board should send in the required number of coupons, Mr. McKee said. Where 12 pounds or more are reported over and above the pound per person allowed in each household reported, it is necessary to submit 24 spare C coupons to the rationing offices of the board, he said.

Farmer Injured

Colin Brownlee, 68, farmer of the Kevisville district near Innisfail, was admitted to the General hospital Wednesday night suffering from a crushed foot, which was caught underneath the wheel of a tractor while he was operating it on his farm premises. Thursday morning his condition was reported as "good."

Getting Around with Jack DeLong

Fundamental planning done by privately owned air lines on the North American continent, prior to Pearl Harbor, was in large measure responsible for the truly miraculous work of aerial transportation carried out in the past year.

The work done by the air lines before and since the war was paid a high tribute recently in Washington by Vice-President Wallace during a unique ceremony in which the Collier Trophy awarded jointly to the army air force and commercial air lines of the United States, for outstanding performances during the past year.

Presentation of the trophy was made to Maj. General Arnold, chief of the U.S. Army Air Force.

The vice-president addressed Gen. Arnold, in part, as follows:

"In handing this scroll to General Arnold, recognition is given to those in the army service as well as to our private air lines, who have done the fundamental planning, which has made possible the rapid expansion of the last two years. Had it not been for

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

Warren Baker, staff representative of the Chicago Tribune, is a guest at the Macdonald hotel. He is on his way to Whitehorse where he has been acting as staff correspondent for his paper. He is accompanied by Mrs. Baker.

N. R. DesBrisay, Winnipeg, assistant passenger traffic manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, arrived in Edmonton Thursday in the course of a business tour. He is accompanied by James W. Dawson, Calgary, district passenger agent.

Edmonton bank clearings for the week ending Jan. 7 were $6,912,601.22. Clearings for the same period last year were $6,821,299.

Thomas Onychuk, who pleaded guilty before Magistrate Millar in city police court Thursday to obtaining a meal by fraud, was sentenced to seven days' imprisonment. He refused to pay a balance of 25 cents on a meal ticket total ling $1.05.

Members of the Edmonton Optimist Club made an educational tour of the Macdonald hotel and made the inside scene of the "workings" of Edmonton's largest hotel. The tour was led by Claude Finlay manager of the hotel.

The report of Inspector E. W. Wille to see what action is advisable to provide teachers for the 10 schools in the Vegreville division which did not open Jan. 4, is being awaited by the department of education, authorities stated Thursday. A few teachers are available, officials stated, but added that getting 10 teachers at this time will be no easy matter.

Number of passengers on the owl tram service on Wednesday night was 295. Thomas Ferrier, superintendent of the street railway system announced Thursday. This sets the daily average at 498 since the service started. The daily average for this week was 375, while the daily average required to make the service pay is 345.

Herbert Joudrie, who pleaded guilty Wednesday to a charge of assaulting his wife, was fined $15 and costs Thursday when he appeared for sentence before Magistrate Millar in city police court. Joudrie, according to evidence, struck his wife in the face, knocking her unconscious and producing a "shiner."

A suggestion made at Regina that the city set aside substantial sums from annual surpluses to aid post-war rehabilitation was a "new thought", Premier William Aberhart stated Thursday. The Alberta government, the premier indicated, had taken the view that financing in connection with post-war rehabilitation should be a Dominion responsibility. No such plan as that proposed by Regina had been considered here, but similar questions will likely come up at the session.

Deacons elected at the Central Baptist church annual meeting were A. Layetzke and J. Murach; clerk of the church, Dan Kirsch, and secretary - treasurer, Albert Kirsch. Extensions and work on the basement of the mission station in Lauderdale district are nearly complete, the Rev. E. P. Wahl told the meeting. Morning services are still being carried on in German, although from the beginning of the year evening services are being held in English.

Several promotions were announced Thursday by authorities at Headquarters M.D. 13, including two men overseas and four in Military District No. 13. The two overseas have been granted their commissions as Lieutenants: Q.M.S. William Hallows, Saskatoon and Coulee, and Q.M.S. (W.O.2) William L. Sambrook of Edmonton. Both are with the R.C.O.C. Sgt. E. J. Taylor of Holden, stationed in Calgary with 13 Coy. R.C.O.C. is promoted to the rank of Staff-Sergeant. L-Sgt. W. Greer of Calgary is to be Sergeant, and Cpl. F. S. Members of Legislature Will Feel Shortage of Houses During Session

By JACK DeLONG

Everyone is familiar with that old saying: "Pity the poor sailor on a night like this", usually uttered by kind-hearted souls on a cold and stormy night. Well, there may soon be a new twist to the same thought. We may soon hear: "Pity the poor M.L.A.'s on a winter like this."

What we are leading to is simply this: With Edmonton experiencing the greatest influx of people in history as a result of the Alaska Highway construction and other wartime projects, housing and general accommodation in hotels and rooming houses is one of the acute problems of the times.

Every winter for years, hotels, blocks and rooming houses have accommodated about 50 members of the Alberta legislative assembly. These take residence in Edmonton during the session.

A majority of the members stay at city hotels. Some take up residence in blocks while others go to private homes and some have rented houses for the period of the session. In some cases members also bring their families with them.

DIFFERENT NOW

Well, this year things are really different, and from the talk one hears around the legislative buildings these days, it may be that some of our law-givers will be putting up in "winterized" tents during the coming session of the legislature.

Manager of one of the leading hotels where several members have been in the habit of staying each winter, told The Bulletin:

"I think I'll be able to look after all the members who stayed here last year, but it won't be any fun. It will mean that I have to turn down other people who are equally in need of accommodation and who also were steady customers in the past."

This hoteiman added that some of the members are fully alive to the gravity of the situation and asked for room reservations as far back as three weeks ago.

OTHER CASES

In other cases though, legislators may not find the welcome mat in the hallway this year. If suites are rented to other tenants it will simply be a case of "Sorry! All booked up! Come back and try again next year!"

Some landlords, where members of the legislature have been in the habit of staying in former years, pointed out that new rental regulations make it impossible to oblige old tenants by ordering the present occupants of suites to vacate.

Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, Robert A. Andison, was "floored" some time ago by a long distance telephone call from a member living in the deep south of the province.

"He wanted me to rent him a nice five-room bungalow close to the legislative buildings," Mr. Andison said.

"I replied I had been looking for such a place for my own use for months," the clerk said.

Yes, it may be a hard winter on legislators.

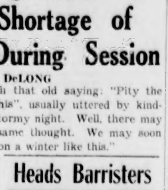

Visiting Officer Lauds Facilities

High praise for the medical examination facilities at No.3 R.C.A.F. recruiting centre was voiced by Wing Commander F. W. Mathewson, deputy directors of medical services for the R.C.A.F., when he visited here Wednesday. He was accompanied by Wing Commander Easton, principal medical officer of No. 4 Training Command, Calgary.

"Your facilities for a quick and thorough medical examination are ideal," he told Squadron Leader W. P. Graham, commanding officer of the centre.

After visiting other air force units in Edmonton Wing Commander Mathewson will continue on his tour, which will take him to R.C.A.F. stations across Canada.

Barristers Elect Officers For 1943

Members of the Edmonton Bar Association, at a meeting held recently, appointed Ald. A. Bisset as president of the association. He succeeds D. C. Cobbledick, who has been president for the past two years.

A. T. McLean, of the firm of Field, Hyndman and McLean, was elected vice-president, and Paul E. Poirier, of the firm of Milner, Steer, Poirier, Maitland and Bowker, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Elected to the executive to act with the elected officers were: Carl E. Clement and Peter Greschuk.

Named as honorary presidents of the association were Rt. Hon. L. St. Laurent, minister of justice, and Hon. William Aberhart, attorney-general for the province of Alberta.

THE QUESTION

Will the trade to the Alberta National Parks come back after the war?

THE ANSWERS

GERALD O'CONNOR, K.C.: Canadian tourist officials have been undamaged by war. In some ways they have been improved. The military road to Alaska through Alberta and Northern British Columbia and the Yukon will be a choice tourist lure when military needs disappear. Members of the Canadian and United States armed forces have seen some of Canada's scenic beauties while on duty. They will be salesmen for Canada's tourist trade when they return to civilian life.

ALD SIDNEY PARSONS: Even in 1941 in the midst of war restrictions, and travel difficulties, nearly 500,000 persons visited Canadian national parks between April 1 and Oct. 31, and stayed longer than ever before. I can see a great tourist future for these parks in the post-war days.

BERT WATSON, salesman: It is safe to predict that the Alaska highway will be one of the main tourist routes of the post-war period. This road has been so extensively advertised that, when military necessity permits relaxation of present non-traffic regulations, there will be a flood of tourists making the trip over the road.

Of Six Hungarian Partridge?

By JACK DeLONG

Opposition members in the Alberta legislative assembly may have a brand new "scandal" to rake the government over the coals during the session.

The question that will likely be hurled at the government leaders is "Who pays the shot for feeding six Hungarian partridges who have been seen to peck kernels of grain beneath the window of the department of agriculture on the west side of the buildings each morning?"

And this business has been going on every morning for several winters. The Bulletin was reliably informed Thursday.

Just as day is breaking each morning the hardy partridges flutter down from the leaden sky on the snow-covered west lawn and march, single file in the snow to the window of the agriculture department.

They appear to feed for a while on what has been identified as some sort of Alberta prize grain. Then sated and satisfied they fly away.

ARE HARDY

Veteran employees at the buildings marvel at the hardiness of the partridges, which on the coldest mornings, bury their heads and breasts deep in the snow. They also crouch down in the snow when a train rumbles across the nearby high level bridge.

They have been observed on their morning pilgrimages for six winters now. There seems to be an accepted leader that the others follow both on the ground and in the air.

Ranks Alberta Doctors Thinned By War Demands

Although the situation in Alberta with regard to civilian medical services is becoming steadily more acute, remedial legislation on the part of the provincial government is out of the question, Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health said Thursday.

The health minister was replying to a question as to the general situation in the province at the present time concerning the shortage of doctors.

"There's really nothing we can do beyond stating the facts of the situation to Ottawa," he said, adding that the situation was becoming actually worse, with the military calling for more and more specialists from the ranks of practicing Alberta doctors.

The Alberta government has been hit particularly hard of late with several of the most experienced men from mental and other institutions going to the armed services.

"We are being left with hardly any experienced men in one or two institutions," Dr. Cross said.

LODGED PROTEST

The minister explained that when the government had protested to Ottawa about drafting off of so many experienced doctors for military service, a committee had been set up in Western Canada to study the situation and advise Ottawa. Dr. M. R. Bow, deputy minister of health, is the Alberta representative on the committee. The committee had protested against the draining off of so many experienced doctors, Dr. Cross said.

"Now it's just a case of hoping for the best," Dr. Cross concluded.

Pre-Payment Taxes Reveals Gain Over 1942

Pre-payment of 1943 taxes continued to trickle at the civic block Wednesday with $43,865.22 being handled by the cashiers to bring the total to date to $111,356.68 compared with $95,605.13 for the same period last year. This is an increase of $15,751.56.

The National Trust Co. Ltd., made the largest payment Wednesday, $24,083, the balance of the payments being from householders in the city taking advantage of the pre-payment plan.

Under the plan the city of Edmonton will pay four per cent interest on all amounts paid on 1943 land taxes on or before Jan. 15. The interest will be calculated from Jan. 15 to the usual instalment due dates.

Taxpayers wishing to take advantage of this provision are requested to pay on the basis of their taxes for the year 1942, it was announced Thursday by Thomas Walker, city assessor.

Blood Clinic Here Retards Opening

Obstacles due to war time difficulties have delayed the opening of a blood clinic in Edmonton similar to that which will be opened in Calgary, Jan. 14, Robert Muir, secretary of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Red Cross announced Thursday morning.

Mr. Muir pointed out that, when completed, the blood clinic in Edmonton will be opened not later than in a few weeks time.

Difficulties have been met in regard to the obtaining and setting up of the necessary equipment here due to pressure of war demands, Mr. Muir stated.

In Calgary, more than 1,000 names will be required to insure the successful operation of the clinic.

No Beef Shortage Is Expected Here

While there is less beef on the market than usual here, there is no actual shortage at present such as is reported in Eastern Canada, officials of packing plants said Thursday.

One official said he considered it possible a beef shortage was "looming," but to date he knew of no meat market which was short in its beef requirements.

It was pointed out, however, that beef must be supplied for military requirements ahead of all else. If officials found it necessary to take over beef supplies to meet military needs, a shortage of beef in civilian might develop.

"This is a cattle country and that is the thing that should be better here than in the east, where fewer cattle are raised in proportion to the civilian and military needs," an official said.

Officers in City

Capt. Fred Crumblehulme, district auxiliary services officer for M.D. 13, is in Edmonton Thursday, and Capt. Ralph Wilson, public relations officer for M.D. 13 will be here Friday. The officers are making arrangements for the boxing match, scheduled here for Jan. 17 between Al Lust and Dave Castilloux.

Bentley Business Men Solve Problem of Calendar Shortage

Bentley business men have again solved the problem of "satisfying the customer" as well as doing an added bit for the Red Cross. As they did last year, Red Cross officials have gone to every business place in the village and proposed that, instead of getting out their own individual calendars, each subscribe to a "pool" calendar and the Red Cross get out a calendar with the name of each business village printed on it.

The scheme has proved most satisfactory, the result being that there are plenty of calendars for the businessmen to distribute, the calendar problem readily solved and the Red Cross has netted a worthwhile sum.

This year, the calendar, which is of a generous size, has a patriotic motif. Pictures of Prime Minister Churchill and President F. D. Roosevelt adorn the top in a frame which is bordered with the implements of war. Guns, ships and planes.

Below the heading "Bentley Red Cross" are wishes for a prosperous season and below that the names of the 25 business firms which subscribed to this worthwhile enterprise.

12 More Recruits Join Air Force

The enlistment of 12 more men and women recruits in the R.C.A.F. was announced Thursday by the R.C.A.F. recruiting centre, Squadron Leader W. Paul Graham, the commanding officer, expressed himself as pleased with the steady flow of recruits and the fine calibre of the young men and women who were coming in to the service.

One new recruit is Robert Mc-Gueen of Dawson Creek, B.C., who has enlisted for air crew, won the 1936 Kiwanis Club essay prize in Vancouver, and also won the proficiency certificate in high school.

A new recruit in the women division of the R.C.A.F. is Beatrice McDonald of Edmonton. Formerly a seamstress, Miss McDonald enlisted for duties as a parachute rigger.

Other newcomers to the R.C.A.F. included: Eva Shank of North Cooking Lake; Donald Mielke, Provost; Donald Powell, Sleep Plain; Metro Pawliuk, Vilna; Stephen Saxby, Lousana; Victor Lopushinsky, Lacombe; Charles Bad, Camrose; Sam Yakimchuk, Edmonton; Carl McInroy, Manville; George Smith, Edmonton.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

War Worker's Family Must Receive Care

Pathetic Stories of Babies Left Without Proper Care Are Heard When Mother Goes Out to Factory; Creches Are Answer

The trouble with women with children following a career, be it that of a cinema star or a riveter, is complicated by the fact that motherhood is a full time, 24-hour job. A man can be both a father and a lawyer, with profit to all concerned. A father can be a soldier and protect his hearthstone while defending his country. But wife can't be a famous jurist and a homebody simultaneously, nor can she go out to do battle with the foe with a baby on one shoulder and a tommy gun on the other, without upsetting all family life.

This is an inescapable truth that is being brought more forcibly home to us every day as more and more women are going into war work, and that becomes an appalling danger as the prospect grows almost into a certainty that thousands upon thousands of still more women will be drafted by the government into factories to take the place of men who are needed in the army.

For this means that there will be millions of children turned loose on the community, with no mother to watch over them, no mother to take care of them, no mother to discipline them, no mother to teach them right from wrong. Millions of children will be growing up on the street and learning its lessons at the most impressionable time of their lives. Already the increase in juvenile delinquency is enormous.

TRAGIC REPORTS

And on every side we hear pathetic stories of babies who are parked in automobiles for safe keeping while their mothers are off at work at some factory; of toddlers found asleep on doorsteps late at night, wet and cold, because they have been locked out of the houses in which their tired mothers are trying to get a few hours' sleep; of whole families of children, unwashed, unkempt, who roam the neighborhood like little tramps, subsisting on hot dogs and ice cream cones and soft drinks that they have bought with the money their mothers gave them for food.

In such cases the mothers are not to blame, no woman being magician enough to be in two places at once, nor having the ability to rear children and run a home with one hand while pulling off a precision job with the other. But, however it is, the situation has become an appalling one, and no one will deny that one of the major problems of the government now is to provide some sort of synthetic mothers for these kids whose own mothers are making bombs instead of cookies, and watching for enemy airplanes instead of keeping an eye on little Johnny.

Many plans have been suggested for meeting the difficulty, but none of them seem very practical. One is that grandmothers should be mobilized to care for the children of the mothers in war industries, but Grandma is notoriously incompetent to deal with the modern youngster. She is either too soft, or too hard. Besides, her ideas of child-culture views are of the pre-first world war vintage, and she could no more manage a 1943 brand of youngster than she could a flying fortress.

It is likewise suggested that the stay-at-home housewives should tend the children of working mothers. That sounds like a good idea if only it wasn't the surest and quickest way of precipitating a neighborhood war. For what mother wouldn't always take her own children's part when the kids got into a fight? And what mother but who thinks that her children's noise is sweet music and that no one should object to, but who can't abide the racket that other children make?

Besides, Mrs. Brown, who lives next door, or Mrs. Smith, who lives up the street, would have no authority that any child would recognize, and they would still follow their own sweet wills about doing as they pleased and coming and going as they liked.

Still, the children of mothers who are engaged in war work and who have no time to mother them must be taken care of in some way. They must be rescued from their own devices. They must be controlled and disciplined. They must be taught the principles of good citizenship. For it will profit us little to fight and die to save our country if we have to turn it over to a generation that is not fit to carry on.

To do this we must have creches where babies can be properly looked after, given the right physical start in life. And recreation centres where older children will be compelled to report as soon as they get out of school, where they will have wholesome games and amusements. But all these things and these must have the authority and backing of the government, and be presided over by men and women who have been trained to deal with child-psychology, and who have the wisdom of Solomon, the patience of Job and the tenderness and understanding of mothers.

And I don't envy them their job. I would rather be a lion-tamer.

McCoy Health Service

Many kinds of foolish advice and palliative treatments are given to the suffering hay fever victim, but the cure is really very simple and depends entirely on dietetic treatment. The person who has a tendency to this disorder must first cleanse his blood stream by a short fast of several days from all foods. He must take large quantities of water, possibly three or four gallons per day, and use at least one daily enema to start off each warm water. The congestion in the mucous membranes can be relieved through stimulating the skin by using two sponge or shower baths daily, afterwards vigorously rubbing down the body with a rough towel until the entire skin surface is glowing. This treatment will increase the activity of the millions of pores in the skin and increase the elimination of body poisons, thus relieving the burden of the mucous membranes.

The fast on water gives the body a chance to correct derangements of the digestive functions which usually accompany hay fever as well as other catarrhal troubles. It is surprising how quickly hay fever will disappear under this regimen, but one must be patient and persevere if the condition is chronic, as the membranes have been literally soaked in mucous for a long time and have learned to practically eliminative organs.

I have received many letters from the readers of my newspaper article telling of instances where they have been able to cure themselves even when the disorder persisted for years by carefully following my instructions. This is one of the disorders in which the patient may expect a great deal of improvement if he will follow the directions exactly, though even slight changes in the dieting may prevent the desired results.

The change back to normal is sometimes slow and cannot be hastened by any local treatment except, perhaps, by a daily application of the cold ultra violet ray onto the membranes of the nose and throat. This treatment will sometimes assist in bringing about a healthier condition by the actinic or chemical effect of this ray.

The diet after the initial water fast should be entirely free for a considerable time from all starch and sugar foods and especial care must be used in avoiding any food made from white flour or white sugar. In most cases it is well to discontinue milk and cream for a time. Bananas, cocoa and chocolate should not be used. A little butter may be eaten with the vegetables but not over two or three ounces daily. Keep up the skin elimination and try to sweat each day through exercising, following the exercises with a cold shower bath. The perspiration brought on by exercising is much more beneficial than that produced by artificial means.

A sample diet which proves satisfactory in the majority of cases after a fast is as follows:

Breakfast: The white, but not the yolks, of one or two eggs, cooked in any manner except frying; a large dish of cooked, non-starchy vegetables; not over three or four prunes or their equivalent in other stewed, unsulphured fruits.

Lunch: A large raw salad of bland leafy vegetables, excluding onions, garlic, peppers or other pungent foods; also one or more of the following cooked, non-starchy vegetables: celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, summer squash, cucumber, egg plant, beet tops, turnip tops, small beets, small carrots, small parsnips, small turnips, pumpkin, lettuce okra or zucchini.

Dinner: The choice of cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables as at lunch; and in addition one-quarter pound of lean beef, chicken, turkey, fresh fish except salmon, rabbit or mutton, no dessert.

These rules are very easily followed and you may expect a complete and permanent cure in every case where there is no mechanical irritation in the nasal passages.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

What To Do

May one use a typewriter for personal correspondence or must personal letters be written by hand?

Answer — All invitations should be extended and accepted in long hand, but the typewriter occupies such an important place in our lives today that personal correspondence may be conducted by typewriter. It is such a time saver that many moderns would never write a letter if they were not permitted to do so on the typewriter.

Naturally your signature will be written in long hand, in ink, and your stationery will be the 8 x 10 size, or smaller as you desire.

Letters of condolence must be written by hand, and so should "thank you" notes.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

There are some children, independent, efficient children, who are slow to submit to the dictates of their parents. They always know what they want to do and it takes tact and persuasion to change their minds.

Many a good, but mistaken parent, aggravated by the child's stubbornness and persistent negativism, develops a technique which she feels will outwit him. She discovers that if she wants him to eat his cereal she has only to say, "No, you can't have any cereal this morning" and without further argument—and with sly glances at her because he is getting the best of her—he gobbles up his cereal.

So it goes throughout the day: "You can't play outdoors," she says sternly and then rejoices because he hustles into his clothes and out doors, though heretofore he has said it was "too cold."

It is difficult to understand why any thinking adult would consider this a victory. True, he eats the cereal and plays outdoors but in doing so he is thumbing his nose at her authority and showing himself up as flagrantly disobedient.

We are authorities over our children only because we are older and wiser and know better than they what is good for them. When they recognize our wisdom they will respect it and heed it.

When we show ourselves more childish than they inevitably our authority breaks down even though momentarily, we seem to be getting the child to do what we really want him to do.

If we are dealing with intelligent children with minds of their own we must handle them intelligently. If a course of conduct is essential for the child's welfare we may be willing to carry it through after we are persuaded ourselves and have reasoned them off his value.

The management of any child must take into account his own personality differences and grow during night to decide things for him self. We, as parents, speak too quickly and then are affronted when we get a negative response. We should think longer, speak only when our mind has been made up, and then expect some cooperation from children, because our course is so right that it sells itself to them.

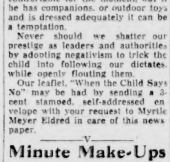

With reason we should by the age of reason, we must carry through some behavior because it is essential. We cannot make a child eat cereal but we can make cereal so alluring that he wants to eat it. Play outdoors may be uncomfortable for the moment, but if he has companions, or outdoor toys and is dressed adequately it can be a temptation.

Never should we shatter our prestige as leaders and authorities by adopting negativism to trick the child into following our dictates, while openly forbidding them.

Our leaflet, "When the Child Says No" may be had by sending a 3 cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this news paper.

RUBBER GLOVES, BOTTLES REQUIRE SPECIAL CARE

Every housewife should take care of her present household rubber articles, as there is little chance that they can be replaced for some time.

Consumer Information Service suggests that she give thought to the family hot water bottle. After it is emptied it should be hung neck down to dry.

Rubber gloves should not be merely peeled off. They should always be dried inside and out, and then blown in to straighten and puff out the fingers. The final step is a dusting with powder. Just a little care will make them last.

Kidneys Are Tasty, Non-Rationed Dish

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Learn to enjoy kidneys. Before the war, they were considered the connoisseur's choice. Today they should be used in every home. They contain the same protein and Waffles and creamed kidneys make a welcome supper specialty for cold winter nights.

B vitamins as your favorite chops and steaks, and are even richer in iron. And, of course, kidneys are not on the list of restricted meats.

CREAMED KIDNEYS ON WAFFLES

(Serves 6)

Six lamb or pork kidneys, 4 tbs. butter, 2 tbs. minced onion, ½ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper, 3 tbs. flour, 1 cup water, 1½ cups milk, 6 hot, crisp waffles.

Wash kidneys, split and remove membrane and tubes. Slice thin and sauté in butter until tender. Add onion and cook until yellow. Blend in salt, pepper and flour. Mix water and milk; slowly stir into kidneys, and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Serve at once on hot crisp waffles.

Here's another delicious combination for any occasion when nourishment and appetite appeal are in order.

KIDNEYS AND MUSHROOMS

Two tbs. fat, ¼ lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced, 1 lamb kidneys, sliced, 1 tbs. flour, ½ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper, ½ cup consomme, buttered toast.

Melt fat in skillet, add mushrooms and kidneys. Sprinkle with flour and seasonings, cook 5 minutes. Add consomme, heat and serve on rice.

Tomorrow's Menu

Luncheon: Scrambled eggs with green herbs, enriched rolls, stewed fruit, tea or milk.

Dinner: Kidneys and mushrooms, brown rice, buttered celery with minced parsley, raw carrot sticks, enriched bread, butter, apple brown betty, milk.

GLOVES

The life of wash gloves will be extended if a soft-bristled brush is used instead of rubbing to get the fingertips clean. This type of brush will prove an asset in many laundering tasks as cleaning binding on blankets and removing excess soil on collars, cuffs or other articles of flat material that will not stand up to stiff rubbing.

WOODEN TABLEWARE

If you have a wooden salad bowl or sandwich tray do not fail to wash it in the ordinary way. The experts suggest you merely wipe it with a damp cloth after using, occasionally rubbing a cloth dipped in a little olive oil over it in order to feed the wood. If stained or marked rubbing the wood the way of the grain with fine steel wool should help to remedy it.

The title, "Reverend" is a good example of r word which has wide application but has become restricted to one meaning because of ignorance of its meaning. Reverend is merely a term of respect or courtesy, and is applied to one who stands in a place of honor. It is thus an honorary title, and a term of respectful address. A church Dean is referred to a Very Reverend; a bishop as Right Reverend; and Archbishops as Most Reverend. Other persons of high position are called Reverend, whether they are minister of the gospel or not.

Heirloom Piece in Jiffy Crochet

By ALICE BROOKS

7468

Pattern No. 7468

Luxury on a wartime budget—in a beautiful jiffy filet crochet cloth or scarf. Though it's so easy to do, yet it adds richness to table or buffet. Make jiffy-crochet articles in two strands of string — or smaller pieces in finer cotton. Pattern 7468 contains instructions and a chart for cloth and scarf; illustrations of stitches; materials needed.

To obtain this pattern send twenty cents in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) to Household Arts Dept., The Edmonton Bulletin, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ont. Write plainly name, address and pattern number.

Envoy's Wife Would "Educate" Rather Than Destroy Japanese

By ANN FRANCE WILSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—After living and suffering through six years of Japan's military brutality in her own country, no might well expect Mme. Tao-Ming Wei, wife of the new Chinese ambassador to the United States, to be eager for severe widespread punishment of Japan's people.

But Mme. Wei is no apostle of Japanese annihilation. She believes the answer to the Japanese problem is to end the military party's rule and establish a Japanese republic. And after that a long educational period to teach the Japanese that the way to become rich is not by pillage and theft, but by intellectual wealth.

Mme. Wei is confident of ultimate victory — so confident that already her talk is full of eager plans and dreams for post-war China. She looks forward to the day when the Japs are driven out, and she may do her part in helping to build a new nation for her 400,000,000 countrymen.

She is supremely confident because outside help has finally come to her people, who, when they fought alone, were able to reorganize and carry on after repeated defeats by an enemy of vastly superior power. And her first-hand observation of China's heroic struggle has resulted in this heartening, and somewhat startling, opinion:

A couple of good, sound lickings will melt the Japanese "nerves of steel" and scrap their vaunted war machine, she says, and an Allied victory will quickly follow these decisive defeats.

Mme. Wei is a vivacious, attractive person who carries lightly an imposing array of titles and distinctions. A rebellious member of a high-ranking official family, she broke with tradition and took a defiant course which has made her one of China's leading "career women."

At 10 she ripped off the bandages that bound her feet. Shortly after she refused to go through with a parentally-planned marriage to the son of Canton's governor. When she was 17 she went to study at Wellesley, and became active with revolutionary group. Though her father was a senior official in the Manchu government, she returned to her native Canton with a suit-case loaded with bombs to be used in assassinating members of the Manchu royal family.

FIRST WOMAN LAWYER

Mme. Wei was the first Chinese woman lawyer, and the first Chinese of either sex to be admitted to practice before the French mixed court of Shanghai. She was president of the Shanghai native district court, and later served as a member of the National Reconstruction of the Legislative Yuan in the Nanking government. The author of two books, she is now at work on a third, although her duties as hostess and manager of the diplomatic household in Washington leave her little time for writing.

She feels that her main job in the United States is to acquaint America better with China and her problems.

"There has always been the greatest friendship between our countries, and the bond is growing," she says. "But I feel that the Chinese people understand America better than Americans understand the Chinese."

Performance Of Melodrama Is Acclaimed

With the flood lights aglow, and an enthusiastic audience waiting in the auditorium of the Masonic Temple, Wednesday evening, the curtain went up on the opening performance of "Dirty Work at The Crossroads," or "Tempted, Tried and True," a melodrama of the gay '90s, presented by the Edmonton Little Theatre.

Under the direction of Sgt. E. Willis and Cpl. E. Johnson, of the U.S. Army, the play, presented in an informal style, brought laughter and applause from the audience. To further enrich the humor, performers would speak to the guests and "let them in on secrets." In one case members of the cast pranced down the aisles, to interrupt the act by selling popcorn.

THE VILLAIN

Alex. Graham, playing the part of Munro Murgatroyd, gave a good rendition of the villain who was out to "fill his pockets" by vamping wealthy girls. His co-partner, Alix Fitzgerald, who played the part of his wife, Ida Rhinegold, "stole" the show. She put poise into her work.

The comedy side of the play was enhanced by mention of such local places as Leduc, Red Deer, Olds, and bringing a somewhat modern touch, was Mookie Magoggins, portrayed by Jack Dixon, who, in the part of the stable boy, reminded one of Mortimer Snerd.

Mrs. Vernis Christie, in the role of sweet, and innocent Nellie Lovelace, a country maid, who was lured and shown the ways of the world by Munro Murgatroyd, was a standout performer.

MAKES A HIT

Arline Howarth, playing the part of Little Nellie, endeared herself to the hearts of the audience.

Others in the cast were Norma De Bruijn, as the Widow Lovelace; Cpl. Johnson, as Adam Oakhart; Hubby Greenwood, as Mrs. Upson Astorbilt; Jacqueline White as Leonie Astorbilt and Elaine MacDonald, as Fleurette. All contributed to the success of the performance.

Jack Unwin, George Cook and L. Pilcher were in charge of sets, costumes, Faith Clifton; make-up, Gwen Sellier, Gerry Starr and Gloria Chepil; properties, George Day; and accompanist, Doris Tingle.

Officers of the Little Theatre are:

Honorary patrons: His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. J. C. Bowen, and Premier William Aberhart and Mrs. Aberhart.

Honorary president, Dr. W. A. R. Kerr.

The Board of Syndics includes: President, Mrs. O. J. Walker; vice-president, Mrs. W. J. Dick; secretary, Mrs. C. Christie; treasurer, G. E. MacCarthy; business manager, C. Christie; production manager, Jack Unwin; properties, George Day; play reading, Miss Daisy Junkin; play selection, Mrs. E. H. Gowan; publicity, Harold Weir; public relations, Brook Smith; social convener, Mrs. Margaret Hutton-Potts; and reporting secretary, Miss Lutie Jessup.—H. M.

Club Activities

It was decided at the January meeting of the Prince Edward of Kent Chapter, I.O.D.E., that each member would undertake the responsibility of filling one Red Cross. Mrs. R. B. Clifton, regent, presided at the meeting, which took place at the home of Mrs. Harry Hayter.

Child Welfare convener, Mrs. J. Norrington, reported that she had sent parcels to three needy families to the value of $30. Mrs. Hayter reported on a Christmas hamper sent to an ex-serviceman's family.

Nomination of officers for the new term concluded the meeting.

At the last meeting of the old year held by the Esprit de Corps club at the home of Miss Phyllis Sewers, Miss Jenny Pawlyshn was elected president for 1943. Others appointed to hold office were: Miss Edith Small, secretary, and Miss Barbara Dahl, treasurer.

Arrangements were made for the annual banquet to be held on Friday at the Corona hotel to commemorate the third anniversary of the club.

Mrs. J. Arvid Vikman, B.D. was elected president of the Augustana Lutheran Church Ladies' Aid at the annual meeting held Wednesday in the Parish hall. Others elected to office are: Vice-president, Mrs. E. Swanson; secretary, Mrs. Leslie Lilledahl; treasurer, Mrs. A. Malmas; treasurer of the flower fund, Mrs. H. Holmgren; program committee, Mrs. Arthur Erikson and Mrs. E. Kiel; sewing committee, Mrs. C. Soderquist and Miss Hildur Carlson.

Annual report on the progress of the club during the past year was presented.

Miss M. Fulton, Capt. McIver Plan to Marry

University and educational circles in Edmonton are interested in the forthcoming marriage, announced today, of Miss Margaret Adele Fulton, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fulton of this city, and Capt William Alvin McIver, eldest son of Mrs. A. E. McIver and the late Mr. McIver of Wolseley, Sask.

Miss Fulton was graduated with her degree in Commerce, from the University of Alberta in 1941. She is a member of Delta, Delta, Delta fraternity. She was also affiliated with philharmonic productions.

Capt. McIver obtained his degree in dentistry from the University here in 1941. In his undergraduate years he was interested in philharmonic productions. At present he is stationed at Penhold with the Canadian Dental Corps.

The wedding is planned for the latter part of February.

School Play Produced by Drama Club

A mystery melodrama entitled "The Ghost Train" by Arnold Ridley, will be the finals production of the Strathcona High school Drama Club at its presentation in the Garneau school auditorium on the evenings of January 13, 14 and 15.

Under the direction of Miss M. S. Simpson assisted by Miss Phenetta Pryor, nearly 80 students are entered in the production of this three-act play, tending to make it a school effort rather than that of the Drama Club alone.

One scene, that of a waiting room in a railway station in the State of Maine, is throughout. Emphasizing the quick-moving drama and as an aid in producing the desired atmosphere leading to the ghostly climax, clever sound effects have been created by the students behind the scenes.

Much of the success of the play will depend upon the interpretation by Herbert Irving, Miss Marie Mcleod and James Pritchard in the leading roles.

Between Lectures

Taking as their slogan "Varsity for Victory" members of the Sophmore and Freshman class executives are completing plans for the "Froph" dance, to be held January 15 at the Macdonald hotel. Up until last year each of the classes entertained at a class dance during the year. Last year the two executives combined and the title of the dance became "The Froph" from a combination of the Frosh and the Soph reception.

Promising to be the biggest social victory of the year, the dancing party which is formal for the co-eds and informal for the men will have a patriotic motif. Corsages and other forms of unessential expense such as decorations have been disposed of.

Making arrangements for the social affair are the members of the Sophmore class executive: J. S. Chamberlain, president; Clarence Anderson, vice-president; D. E. McKay, secretary-treasurer; C. H. Galbraith, J. R. Hemstock, A. L. Stevinson and the Freshman class executive: William Simpson, president; Miss Muriel Smith, vice-president; David La Rose, secretary-treasurer; Kenneth Nickerson, Sandy Gilchrist and Ralph Rookwood.

Members of the Wauneita Society anxious to have attractive gold and green pins, emblems of the society, and who are unable to purchase them in the fall are eagerly seeking executive members this week to obtain one of the new shipment of pins recently arrived. War conditions have made the pins hard to obtain and the executive members of the club have had to wait four months for the pins to arrive.

Campus clubs such as the Outdoor Club, the Debating Society, the Mathematics Club, the Public Speaking Club and others are planning meetings after the Christmas vacation. Already executive members of the many societies are busy arranging programs.

One of the newest of University clubs, the Aeronautic Club, will hold its first meeting for the new term Monday evening in the Medical Building. Formed as a branch of the Engineering Students' Society, the club is for members of the society interested in aeronautics. The guest speaker Monday evening will be Mr. Adey, assistant chief engineer of the TCA from Winnipeg, who will speak on "Aeronautical Engineering, Past, Present and Future." Moving pictures will be another feature of the evening meeting.

Miss Jean Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wallace of Edmonton, left for Vancouver on Wednesday after spending the New Year's holiday in the city a guest of her parents.

Guests of their parents, Mrs. Charles Gray of Jasper Place, and George Bragg, Corona hotel, for two weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bragg left Wednesday to return to their home in Winnipeg.

MARRIED WOMEN DISCHARGED FIRST

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(CP)—High officials in women's service organizations in Britain agree that married women should be the first to receive their discharges when the war is over.

There will be no mass demobilization, one of these officials said. Married women will be released first, then women whose jobs have been held open for them, and the services will not release single women immediately unless they have jobs to go to.

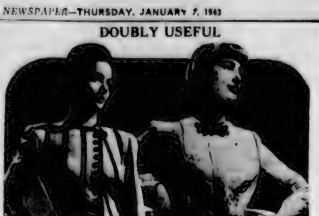

The authorities anticipate that many of the women will wish to stay in the services after the war, and provision has been made in this regard. They will be needed as long as Britain maintains a standing army, navy and air force. When peace comes the first questions to be asked of men and women when demobilization plans are being made will be "Are you married? Is your husband serving abroad? Have you any children?"

WOMEN PART-TIMERS

LONDON.—It is conservatively estimated now that Britain has 500,000 women in part-time jobs. Mainly they are in the Midlands and the London area.

DOUBLY USEFUL

Here are a couple of handsome wardrobe doublers for your clothes conservation campaign. Each of the jackets can double up with skirts you already have and, likewise, each of these skirts plus one of your odd jackets will give you an extra suit outfit. The two-piece jersey outfit at left combines a bright blazer-striped jacket with a skirt in subdued diagonal pattern. Quite Chinese in feeling is the outfit at right, of quilted rayon jacket with skirt of sharply contrasting color. The smart jacket can go stylishly with dinner slacks or a simple dinner dress.

Miss Griffith Is President Alex. Alumnae

Miss M. Griffith was elected president of the Royal Alexandra Hospital Nurses' Alumnae at a meeting held in the Nurses' Home on Monday. Others elected to the executive are: honorary president, Miss M. Fraser; vice-presidents, Miss V. Chapman and Mrs. J. White; recording secretary, Miss L. Perkins; corresponding secretary, Miss M. Edgar; treasurer, Miss I. Toby; committee and convenors: program and war effort, Miss K. Stackhouse; benefit, Miss A. Anderson; sick visiting, Miss A. McGillivary; scholarship, Miss Einarson; news letter, Miss Smith; and additional executive, Miss Holm.

A report on the war effort for 1942 included a donation of $40 to the Milk for Britain Fund; a shower for the Superior Street boys; two wool afghans for the Red Cross, and Christmas hampers for needy families.

Early in 1943, $25 was donated to the Russian Relief Fund.

A scholarship valued for $250 will be granted to a member of the Alumnae Association, members who wish to qualify must put in applications not later than April 1.

New Yorkers "Go White" For Dimout

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Women have turned a policeman's suggestion into a fashion trend and many of them are wearing white when they go forth into New York's dimout, it appeared today.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine suggested last week that pedestrians wear something white to decrease the hazard of walking in the dimly-lighted streets.

Now, many stores report, women have accepted an old idea of white apparel as something fashionable as well as safe to wear.

The American Women's Voluntary Services, first group to cooperate in the safety campaign, announced it will adopt white gloves and arm bands as part of the official evening uniform.

White raincoats were quoted by several stores as much in demand for dimout wear, with or without white umbrellas and felt hats to complete the protective color scheme. Less elaborate articles, which many stores said purchasers are seeking, include white gloves, kerchiefs, handbags and luminous decorations for the lapel.

Red Deer Pair Donate Piano To War Hostel

Thanks to the generosity of Mr and Mrs. E. B. Bradbury of Red Deer the War Services Hostel for Northern Alberta will be equipped with a fine piano. Hearing of the needs of the hostel, Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury decided to donate their piano to the hostel as a contribution to the war effort. The hostel opening has been delayed owing to the necessity of complying with the new fire regulations, and the difficulty of securing essential fire equipment. However, it is expected that the opening will take place very shortly and the piano, for which the War Services Council is very grateful, will be duly installed.

Varsity Play To Be Opened January 22

With the holiday season a thing of the past, students at the University of Alberta are busy with lectures and studies—and, of course, thoughts of the extra-curricula activities that the spring term at the University brings. Heading the most months these days is the annual spring play "Watch On The Rhine" by Lillian Hellman on the presented Friday and Saturday evenings, January 22 and 23 in Convocation Hall commencing at 8.15 p.m. The play which has had a successful run on Broadway and which will be produced as a moving picture in the near future, was presented at the Banff School of Fine Arts this summer and the rights were given to the University of Alberta to produce the play before it was released to public production.

It is modern in its theme and exciting in its dialogue and situations. It deals with the affairs of a German anti-Nazi who with his American wife and three children escapes the long arm of the Gestapo and reaches America.

Taking feminine roles are: Miss Evelyn Johnson who plays the part of Fannie Farelly; Miss Paulette Jegard who plays Anise; Miss Gemice Brown, who plays Marthe de Brancovis; Miss Isobel Macgregor who plays Sara Muller, and Miss Doris Williams, who is Bodo the Muller. Masculine leads are played by William Carr, who is Kurt Muller. Others in the cast are Robert Wills, representing Joseph; Arthur Hiller, David Farrelly and Joseph Shuster, who is Lenk de Brancovis.

Directing the play is E. Maldyn Jones.

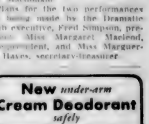

Make-up for the two productions will be in the hands of the student overseers of the Make-Up Club, under the direction of Mrs. Richard Macdonald.

Plans for the two performances are being made by the Dramatic Club executive, Fred Simpson, president; Miss Margaret Macleod, correspondent, and Miss Marguerite Hayes, secretary-treasurer.

Absentee Miners Halt Blairmore Coal Production

BLAIRMORE, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Coal production at the Greenhill mine here was practically at a standstill yesterday when between 50 and 60 miners failed to show up for work.

The miners, who reside at Hillcrest, were absent from work as a result of a dispute with a bus operator, B. John Ferstay, who takes them to and from the mine. It was said the bus man notified the miners he was going to raise transportation costs from $4 a month to $6. The Greenhill mine was asked to assist with the extra cost but the company refused. The men then decided to stay at home until a settlement was effected.

Dressed Muskrats Ready to Relieve U.S. Meat Shortage

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Louisiana muskrats, dressed up for the table as "marsh hares," are concentrated here in large quantities for shipment to the eastern and midwestern United States as a delicacy to supplant depleted meat stocks. State Conservation Commissioner Joseph L. McHugh said one buyer who uses the pelts for furs has 17,000 carcasses dressed for market and frozen in a local cold storage plant ready for sale.

U.F.A. Protests Reduction in Price of Eggs

Protest against the drastic reduction in the price paid producers of eggs in Alberta has brought a resolution of protest from the executive of the United Farmers of Alberta, Robert Gardiner, president of the U.F.A., declared Thursday

In a statement prepared by the executive and signed by the president, R. was revealed that the U.F.A. protests the Dominion government agricultural policy that permits drastic fluctuations in the price of eggs at a time when the cost of production is heaviest. The statement pointed out that in the last five weeks the price to the farmer for top grade eggs (grade A large) has dropped from 47 cents to 30 cents a dozen. This is a decrease of 36 per cent.

During the same time the retail price of the same grade eggs dropped from 52 cents to 45 cents, it was revealed locally.

"Fluctuations of this kind make planning for the future almost impossible and certainly to a large extent futile, the statement read.

The U.F.A. executive has drawn the attention of the Dominion minister of agriculture to this situation in a wire Jan. 5, as follows:

"Executive of United Farmers of Alberta protest drastic reduction in price of eggs paid to producers in Alberta as indicated Calgary district markets from high of forty-seven to thirty cents for Grade A large. This disastrous decline in price during high cost production period will seriously, discourage future production. Suggest Board establish price during winter months that will enable farmers continue present production levels. These variations in returns to farmers are demoralizing. Stability of prices for farm products essential to continuity of their war effort."

Warns Teachers Of High Marks At All Times

Beware of the teacher whose pupils always get high marks in examinations, for it means that he is either holding pupils back to lower grades than is necessary, or concentrating solely upon examination work and the teaching of three or four pieces a year. This was the advice given by Norman Wilks, principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music in an address given at a luncheon meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Music Teachers' Association at the Corona hotel Thursday.

Mr. Wilks is touring western Canadian cities where he is meeting teachers.

The speaker was introduced by V. A. Beringer, president of the association.

The progress in the establishment of music teachers associations in the east was outlined by Mr. Wilks, who said that it was absolutely necessary that teachers get together to discuss their problems.

LAST LINK

When a branch is formed in Quebec it will be the last link in a strong chain of branches across the dominion. This, he said, will be the opening for real ventures by the association.

In Ontario, he revealed, there are 19 branches with 12,000 members.

Seated at the head table with Mr. Wilks were Mr. Beringer, Mrs. T. Winslow Hamilton, Mrs. Gordon Gray, G. A. Kevin, Mrs. J. N. Eaglenson, Miss C. Jackson and Mrs. F. Barber Smith.

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

Cochrane has been promoted to the rank of Corporal. All are with 13 Coy. R.C.O.C. in Calgary.

Dr. R. D. Sinclair, dean of the faculty of agriculture at the University of Alberta, addressed members of the Rotary club at their regular weekly luncheon meeting at the Macdonald hotel. Thursday noon. Subject of his address was "Science for the Farm."

Program following the regular weekly luncheon of the Edmonton Lions club was restricted to entertainment only. The meeting was held at the Macdonald hotel Thursday noon.

As a result of a request made by certain classes of employees of the Macdonald hotel for an agreement covering rates of pay and working conditions, negotiations are being conducted by F. W. Edge, director of labor relations, C.N.R. These negotiations are proceeding satisfactorily with spokesmen for certain classes of employees affiliated with the Hotel and Restaurant Employees International Alliance, Local Union No. 93, Edmonton.

Members of the South Edmonton Battalion, Veterans' Volunteer Reserve, will hold a meeting to organize activities for 1943 at the battalion's headquarters, 10313 82 avenue, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. A number of prominent Edmonton citizens have been invited to attend the meeting, which will be more social than military in character, and all returned men living on the South Side, whether members of the V.V.R. or not, are invited to attend.

An intensive recruiting drive for women to join the Canadian Women's Army Corps is planned for this month, all over Canada, now that the quota set for the corps is 10,000. A recruiting party left Calgary for points in southern Alberta on Thursday to be out for 10 days, and similar parties will be covering other points in the province very shortly. It is stressed that every girl who enlists in the C.W.A.C. releases an A-category man for a wider sphere of service, and the Dominion government has been ready to recognize the importance of this. Originally it was planned to have only 3,500 members of the C.W.A.C.

Rent Infractions Aired in Courts

Total of prosecutions reported by the enforcement division, Wartime Prices and Trade board during the week Dec. 26 to Jan. 2 inclusive was headed by violations of rentals regulations. There were 16 rentals cases heard in Canadian courts.

Fines for rental infractions ranged from $10 to $100 while in fractions of the prices regulations went as high as $600. Honoring sugar coupons before they were valid cost a chain store in Windsor $200.

Contraventions of orders of the oil controller, rubber controller and controller of construction brought a total of 62 cases. One of these cases brought a fine as high as $100 in Quebec.

Two Are Held After Loss of Cash From Safe

A steward and his juvenile companion are under arrest and a third man is the object of a search by city police as the result of the alleged theft of $139 from the safe of the Edmonton Club, Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

Charles Cote, steward at the club, and a juvenile companion, were arrested Wednesday by city police after quick investigatory work on the part of Detective Inspector John Leslie and Detective Alex Stevenson.

The safe was found unlocked Wednesday morning by Ronald Watkins, chief steward. Upon further investigation he found the money missing and questioned Cote, who was steward the night before.

There was no evidence of the safe being forced or the premises being broken into.

Cote was arrested later in the day and a juvenile companion was picked up at 5 p.m. Wednesday. A third man, believed to be an accomplice and believed to be in possession of the money, is object of a search Thursday.

Cote appeared before Magistrate Millar in city police court Thursday and was remanded for trial until Jan. 14. The juvenile will appear in juvenile court.

Plan to Study Contemporary World Events

Something new in the way of social co-education for Edmonton young people, "So-Ed", will make its first appearance here on Friday, Jan. 15, according to an announcement Thursday by John C. Denison, chairman of the local committee sponsoring the project for this area. The initial series of informal courses "which are focused on the needs of young people living in present day society" will last six weeks. Sessions will be held every Friday from Jan. 15 to Feb. 19 starting at 8:15 p.m. at the Y.M.C.A.

Developed less than three years ago as "an adult education program with significance, color, and relatively inexpensive" So-Ed is being presented now in 18 different Canadian centres from Sydney, N.S., to Victoria, B.C. More than 2,500 Canadian young people are participating in this project established through the Y.M.C.A.

Edmonton registration is limited to 180 persons, and only those more than 18 years old can become members. Applications are now being received at the Edmonton Public Library, north and south branches, at the Y.W.C.A., and at the Y.M.C.A.

GENERAL PATTERN

General pattern to be followed by the Edmonton So-Ed series involves a meeting once a week for six weeks. The evening program will be divided into three parts. First period is to be a lecture-discussion, the second will consists of instruction in cultural leisure-time activities, and the third is a recreational period for games, folk dances and social dancing.

A participant will have a choice of courses for the first two periods, but once having made a choice he or she must remain with those courses throughout the So-Ed term. The last period is to be "a grand social mixer and party for all".

In one evening the So-Ed member will be able to take part in a serious discussion, learn and develop a hobby skill, and participate in a party.

Members of the Edmonton So-Ed sponsoring committee besides Mr. Denison include Miss Helen Selwood, Mrs. Grace Dalton, Miss Connie Crealock, Allah Welsh, Gordon Pretty, Miss Dorothy Arkell, Don Leard, Miss Anna Neilson, Miss Norma Reynolds, Bob Torrance, Stuart Harris, Miss Lillian Broadhead, Clark Ready, Alfred Flower, Miss Eleanor Haynes and Jack Campbell.

Controller Dies

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—(CP)—T Sydney Saunders 76, controller of the Quebec Liquor Commission since 1921, died yesterday after a long illness.

Six Districts Are Formed by U.S. Engineers

Six districts of the north west division of the U.S. Army Engineers under the administrative control of Col. Theodore Wyman, Jr., Croix de Guerre and veteran of the First World War, have been formed according to an announcement Thursday.

Col. Wyman, who is at present in Washington, is expected to return here in about 10 days. His appointment to his present position was announced only recently.

The new districts are Edmonton, Prince Rupert, Dawson Creek, Skagway, Whitehorse and Fairbanks.

Other appointments that have been made are Lt.-Col. H. J. Woodbury who is assistant division engineer and Lt.-Col. C. M. Clifford formerly of the Mountain division with headquarters at Salt Lake City who is now executive officer here.

The former executive officer to Col. Wyman, Maj. P. E. Michener has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel and is now district engineer for the Edmonton district.

OTHER OFFICERS

District engineer for the Dawson Creek region is Lt.-Col. Harry R. Schuppner, while Lt.-Col. Gerald R. Tyler will be in charge of the Prince Rupert district.

In the Whitehorse region Maj. L. E. Laurion is acting district engineer, at Fairbanks, Lt.-Col. Maxwell E. Erdoty and at Skagway, Lt.-Col. Thomas J. Hayes.

The new division is under the general supervision of Brig.-Gen. J. A. O'Connor, officer commanding the Northwest Service command.

ROAD REPORT

A.M.A. Safety Slogan: Use of horn does not give the right-of-way.

Thursday's road report: At Waskatenau the road is reported still blocked in the west, while at Two Hills the road is closed to St. Paul. At Thorsby the road is reported slippery. All other points report cloudy weather and the roads in good condition.

Greater Number Adults Reveal Music Interest

Registration at the Toronto Conservatory of Music has been considerably increased during recent years with more adults taking an interest in music than ever before, Norman Wilks, Toronto, principal of the conservatory, stated on his arrival here to confer with Edmonton music teachers.

He will be the guest of honor at a luncheon at the Corona hotel Thursday given by the Edmonton Music Teachers Association.

The present trip is being made to discuss musical matters with teachers across Canada in an effort to stimulate appreciation of music in all sections of the community.

Mr. Wilks said that there appeared to be a greater demand for concerts than at any time in recent history and more people are endeavoring to obtain a greater appreciation of music. This, he added was shown in the increase in registration in lecture classes at the Conservatory.

MORE RECOGNITION

Commenting on Canadian artists, Mr. Wilks said that more recognition should be given to musicians of Canadian birth. There was an abundance of real talent amongst the Canadian artists, and many of the leaders were leaving the Dominion to seek fame in the United States and other countries because of lack of recognition and opportunity here.

He said that a primary duty of music-loving people here was to provide this opportunity for Canadian artists. He added that series of concerts given by national associations should contain the name of at least one Canadian artist.

Mr. Wilks, who succeeded Sir Ernest McMillan as principal of the Conservatory, saw service in the First World War as a member of the East Kent Regiment. He was a pianoforte student in Berlin in 1914 when Germany invaded Russia, but succeeded in escaping from that country via Holland and England and immediately joined the British army.

At Conference

J. A. King, chairman of the Alberta Liquor Control Board who is in Toronto attending a conference at Toronto, which opened today, to discuss uniformity among the provinces, of liquor sales.

Overseas Soldiers Win Promotions

Three Edmonton officers serving overseas have been promoted, according to an announcement made Thursday at military headquarters, Calgary.

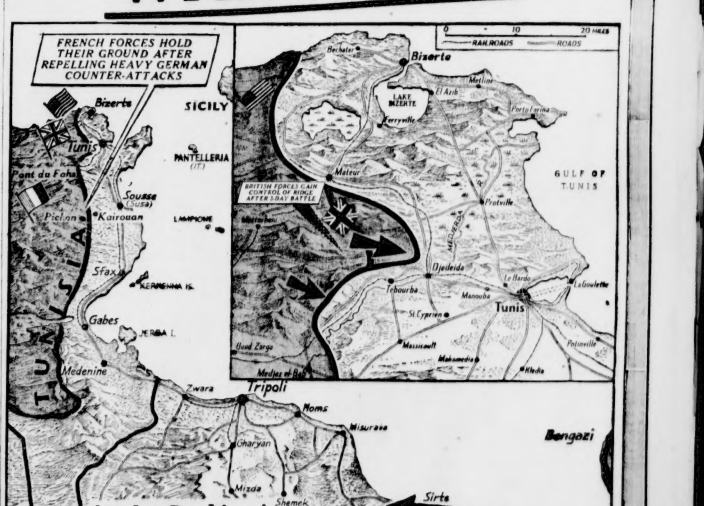

Capt. Robert H. Mewburn who is serving with the Royal Canadian Artillery has been promoted to major. He was a former member of the 61st (Reserve) Field Battery, R.C.A. and was appointed a second lieutenant in that unit when it was mobilized in September, 1939.

Capt. Percy S. Cooper and Capt. Albert E. Newton, both serving with the 1st Battalion, Edmonton Regiment, have been promoted to majors. Maj. Cooper held a commission in the 19th Alberta Dragoons previous to the war's outbreak, and was appointed a lieutenant in the Edmonton Regiment in November, 1939.

Maj. Newton was a member of the reserve unit of the Edmonton Regiment previous to the outbreak of war, and was commissioned as a second lieutenant in November, 1939.

A former Red Deer resident, Lt. W. M. Annable, has been promoted to captain. He is serving overseas with the R.C.A.

SO YOUR HUSBAND'S GONE TO WAR!

by ETHEL GORHAM • whose husband is at war

CHAPTER FIVE

NOWADAYS, what with clock-work conscription systems, volunteering for active service at the front seems a little out of date. But in the field of civilian defense and the auxiliary services the volunteer comes into his or her own. Some of the jobs involve the smart trappings of a sky-blue uniform; others offer no more glamorous badge of office than a mop and bucket. Some jobs are as vital to the prosecution of the war as those of the infantryman, the tank driver, or the airman. Others release able-bodied men to the fighting forces. Still others serve to promote needed friendliness and warmth.

Whatever you find to do, keep your appointment and commitments with ironbound punctuality. Don't wear a uniform unless it is required. Even if it is permissible to, but not required, don't wear a uniform. If it is both required and necessary, just wear your uniform during the allotted time and change back into ordinary clothes as soon as you can. Don't expect to take privileges for volunteer work and openly attack anyone who does.

There are three kinds of volunteer work: full-time, day part-time, night work. If you are busy all day trying to earn your living, all the work you can do will have to fit into the evening hours. Whatever it is, you will be grateful for the evenings it absorbs and for the feeling it gives you of being part of the show.

One of the most important tasks in the big city is that of the air-raid warden. Don't be put off by remarks like that of the woman who had volunteered for ARP at the height of its vogue and was now rather irked by those who took it seriously. "Won't it be terrible," she said, "if we don't have an air raid after all this trouble? So silly otherwise."

So silly of her instead. Next to a brave and well-equipped fighter command, like that of the R.A.F., a well-organized ARP is the chief deterrent against enemy bombers.

However, if you have a child you may find that ARP has to be ruled out as one of your set assignments. What you can do is offer to help out your air-raid post by remaining within telephone reach in case of emergency and acting as a pivotal point for getting information to all wardens. But if you have no child why don't you apply at your local police station to see if they need any assistance in the neighborhood ARP?

The U.S.O. can use evening volunteer workers in many ways. Of course you can go on call for dances or parties, although the unmarried girls naturally are better at gladdening the hearts of the troops than you would be. The U.S.O. also maintains service desks in many railroad depots, and if you take over the desk for a few nights each week you may give to some uniformed man what another woman, perhaps a thousand miles away, has given to your husband—a welcome hand when he needed it.

Other evening jobs can be had with the Officers' Service Committee, which does much the same for the officers as the U.S.O. does for the soldier. Or you can go into night canteen service with the Salvation Army.

By all means apply at your local O.C.D. and see what special evening assignments they can give you. Civilian Defense maintains a multitude of departments, anything from child care to water supply, and there are many projects for part-time work.

If you want to prepare yourself for some kind of war work which may be of service later, why not take one of these evening courses?

1. Red Cross First Aid. Instruction in what to do between time of accident and arrival of doctor. Training period, eleven weeks, one two-hour session each week.

2. Red Cross Home Nursing, instruction in how to protect the health and learn basic nursing methods for care of home individual. Training period, six weeks, two two-hour sessions each week.

3. Red Cross Nutrition Course, study of food values, how to budget, select, prepare, and serve nourishing foods on limited budgets. Training period, ten weeks, one two-hour session each week; or five weeks, two two-hour sessions each week.

Apply at your local Red Cross Chapter for information on any of these. No matter how funny all the Helen Hokinson ladies look strapping one another up in their first-aid work, the knowledge and instruction you get may prove invaluable later.

What further work you can do in the evening depends, of course, on the exigencies of the war situation and the neighborhood you live in. Don't worry if you can't do more than you have time for. After all, you can look at it in this way: by working during the day you have released your husband for active duty at the front.

There is always knitting and bandage-rolling within the chatty confines of the local Red Cross. There is also staff work such as typing, filing, attending to information booths, et cetera, at your volunteer organization headquarters. You can sort and classify used medical instruments in the offices of the Medical and Surgical Relief Committee of America.

Too much cannot be said about the nurses' aide. If you have the time and energy you couldn't pick a more vitally necessary post. There are not enough nurses in hospitals, clinics, or health agencies, and there will be still fewer as the army and navy call more of them to active duty. Your work will take you into hospital wards, accident rooms, blood-donor centres, and on emergency medical field units.

If food is your metier, why don't you apply to the local Red Cross for work in their emergency canteen? The corps is trained to serve meals to evacuees in any disaster and everyone knows what a wonderful job they've done in floods and fires. You must take the Red Cross standard course in food and nutrition and the canteen course. Then you get eighty hours of practical training in chapter and veterans cafeterias. If you volunteer you must be on duty two hours once or twice a week. Requirements are citizenship and any age between eighteen and fifty.

The Home Service of the Red Cross is a welfare service for men in the armed forces and their families. This is supposedly open only to women with qualifications for doing family case work, but no routine standard social-service background seems to be asked for. You work under a case worker's supervision and make inquiries of doctors, employers, schools. You accompany children to clinics, visit families in special instances.

The A.W.S., American Women's Voluntary Service, has many chapters throughout the country. It maintains a workshop for knitting, sewing collection and distribution of clothing. It gives various courses in civilian defense, photography, gardening, physical fitness, international Morse code training, and telephoning. It maintains mobile kitchens and acts as a transportation office for the taxing of soldiers, the delivering of food and clothing.

One job totally without glamor but almost more vital than any other to the final defense of the nation is that of nursery work. Defense nurseries are springing up in every production centre. So far there aren't enough teachers to take over the work or enough money to pay them. If you took an education o. teaching course at college by all means volunteer. If you are not a qualified teacher there are still dozens of tasks you can do around a nursery school.

Because there is so much good to be done you must do it. Better than anything else it will keep you from being isolated from the very thing in which your husband is now actively involved. Total war, say the experts, means total defense. And total defense means no fooling around.

Canadians Will Not Stop Until Japan Completely Beaten

CANBERRA, Jan. 7. — (CP) — Hon. T. C. Davis, Canadian high commissioner, today told the people of Australia in a national broadcast that Canada would not lay down arms until Japan is completely crushed.

"I think I can safely say for Canada and I believe I express the opinion of the United States as well, that we now have the feeling our main enemy is Japan and that ultimately the whole might of our respective nations will be hurled against Japan," he said.

Lone Nazi Raider Kills 4 Persons In British Town

LONDON, Jan. 7. — (CP) — A single Nazi plane bombed an east coast town in daylight yesterday, killing at least four persons and injuring a number of others.

One bomb hit a club, burying a number of persons, and another made a direct hit on a theatre.

The Air and Home Security minis tries announced bombs also were dropped at a place near the coast of East Anglia, but little damage was done and only one person was injured by machine-gun fire.

C.C.F. Using War For Political Gain Says Sask. Premier

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Jan. 7.—(CP)—Premier W. J. Patterson said last night he was convinced that the policy which the Saskatchewan government had followed since the outbreak of war of cooperating with and assisting the federal government in the war effort by the sinking of political discussion "was the best policy and the proper procedure."

Addressing the annual meeting of the Moose Jaw Provincial Liberal Association, Premier Patterson, who also is provincial treasurer, contrasted the attitude of his government to the C.C.F. policy which he said "utilized the position of Canada at war for its own political gain."

Recruits Are "Keen As Mustard"

* * * * * *

C.W.A.C. Training Centre

With the same precision of well-trained marching feet, fingers march without a stumble over the typewriter keys at the training school of the C.W.A.C. here. This is because they march to a stirring military march played on a gramophone.

Situated in a building at the corner of 97 st. and 101A ave., the training school is conducted under the supervision of Mrs. M. Kimball, civilian instructor, with Mrs. Simpson as assistant and Staff Sgt. P. Hawkins, military instructor.

Complete satisfaction at the progress the school is making was expressed by Capt. Pearl Brent, officer commanding the C.W.A.C. in Alberta, when she paid a call there.

On Wednesday, Capt. R. B. Fitzgerald, director of army trade schools in Alberta, also paid the school a visit and expressed himself as completely satisfied with the training and enthusiasm of the girls.

First class to graduate since the opening of the training centre will pass through the graduation exercises on Tuesday, Jan. 12. After graduation they will be posted at different training centres or military units, quite a large number will go overseas.

FROM MANY POINTS

Gathered from all parts of the four western provinces, the girls, say instructors, are "as keen as mustard," and their marks are nothing short of remarkable.

Quartered at the Prince of Wales Armory, the girls come down to classes each day at 8:30 a.m. and remain until 4:30 p.m. An hour is allowed each day for lunch.

Each girl, upon graduation, is qualified in one of three courses, general duty" clerks, stenographers, or clerk accountants. All are trained under the War Emergency Training program.

In a long room, in which the two classes—those ready to graduate and those who have just started their training—are divided, nearly 50 typewriters click industriously. There's no slacking and the visitor finds that few, if any, even glance up when anyone passes them.

When the marches are played on the "music box" fingers become like precision squads, with the beginners tripping out single words and the veterans typing like the seasoned stenographer.

OTHER INSTRUCTION

All instruction, however, is not devoted to clerical work. Staff Sgt. Hawkins takes over the classes daily for tuition in orderly-room procedure so that the graduate may know exactly what work she has to, deal with. Formerly girls graduated without this instruction and had no idea just why they were detailed to do certain things.

In this course the instruction includes a theoretical course giving the background for a military career and a practical course in which the manual of military law is studied.

Each girl, during her course has two late passes a week, one Friday and one on Saturday and each month has two week-end leaves.

And a final fashion note—the trim khaki uniforms make the girls look about the smartest class in appearance that's ever been seen.

Alaska Highway Offices Come Here

District head offices for the Alaska highway are being opened in Edmonton immediately by the United States public roads administration, functioning under the general administration direction of Col. Theodore Wyman, U.S. divisional engineer, it was announced Wednesday.

J. S. Bright, who is expected to arrive shortly from Washington, will be district engineer in charge, with associate district engineer, W. N. F. McCoy, who has reached the city.

A staff of between 40 and 50 persons, including engineers and clerks, will be at headquarters here. Some of the administrative functions of the P.R.A. office at Seattle will be transferred to Edmonton, along with some personnel.

The project offices at Fort St. John, B.C., under construction engineer C. F. Capes, and at Whitehorse under F. E. Andrews, will continue to function as before, Mr. McCoy said. The Edmonton offices will have direct charge of location and construction of the permanent highway facilities from Fort St. John to Fairbanks, a distance of some 1,600 miles, and will be associated with the U.S. engineer's department in carrying out the program of construction.

Ruts in Street Held Cause of Fatal Accident

Loss of control of his car, caused by ruts in the street, was the cause of an accident in which Mervin F. McMannis, 37, of 11333 99 street lost his life Jan. 2, according to a verdict brought down Wednesday by a coroner's jury.

Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, chief provincial coroner, presided and Detective Coroner William McDonald conducted the inquest. F. G. Day, assistant city solicitor, acted on behalf of the street railway.

CAUSE OF DEATH

According to the jury's verdict McMannis died in the Royal Alexandra hospital at 7:15 p.m. last Saturday from multiple fractures including a crushed chest, punctured lung and broken clavicle.

The verdict read further that the auto driven by McMannis got out of control and crashed into street car 27, owned by the Edmonton Street Railway and operated by Clifford Holloway.

F/O. A. Stuart Bird who witnessed the accident from his car stated that McMannis' car came skidding sideways and hurtled across the street to crash into the front end of the street car which was just coming to a stop.

The force of the impact against the right side of the car was so great that the front seat was forced out of its complete circle. The right side of the car was demolished.

Bird reported that he and another man rushed McMannis to the Royal Alexandra hospital where he died at 7:15 p.m., about an hour and a quarter after the accident occurred.

Other witnesses who described the accident were Clifford Holloway, motorman of the street car involved, and Cecil R. Goss, a passenger in the car, who was preparing to dismount at the time of the accident.

DESCRIBE SCENE

Describing the scene of the accident were Constable Wes Stanton of the city traffic police and Douglas Thompson of the city engineering department. Medical evidence was given by Dr. W. A. Wilson and Dr. Morton Hall who performed the post-mortem.

Robert B. McMullen, operator of a street car "immediately in front of Holloway's tram, gave evidence on the speed of Mc. Mannis' car a moment before the crash.

The jury consisted of David Duncan, foreman; E. W. Armstrong, A. E. Asher, L. H. White, R. E. Jones and Francis LeGassick.

Jap 'Last Man' Buna Stand Ended as Flight Into Sea

By MURLIN SPENCER

WITH U.S. TROOPS IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 2.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Cleanup units of an American ground force drove through the last enemy defences today and captured the bomb-shattered Buna government station after many Japanese had fled into the sea in a mad effort to escape.

It was plainly through sheer weight of numbers—for there are no tanks in this area—that the Americans, their jungle-green uniforms mud-splattered and their bodies eased by six weeks of battle against the Japs as well as the jungle, broke down the enemy's bunker defences.

Rather than fight to the last as they said they would, the Japs sought to flee by raft, small boats and even by swimming. On their refusal to come ashore and surrender, many were shot by machine gunners and riflemen while others were strafed by planes.

MOP UP

I watched the Americans open their campaign in the Buna area on Nov. 19 with an attack in the jungle south of Cape Endaiadere. I watched it end with the troop systematically mopping up the cocoanut palm bunkers with rifles and grenades.

The once-scenic Buna government station, with its cocoanut palm grove overlooking the ocean between Buna village and Cape Endaiadere, looked as though a cyclone had hit it.

Its half-dozen buildings, some of corrugated iron (most pretentious in Papua), were shattered, twisted and pocked by shrapnel.

Others were burned to the ground and still smouldering.

The ground, churned by bombs and shells, helped to explain the haunted look of the Jap prisoners. Mostly coolies who had been forced to labor, they bowed to their captors then, weak and emaciated, they gulped down the food given them.

Reports Reveal:

Fear Sweeping Germany And Nazis Are Using It To Keep People in Line

ON THE GERMAN FRONTIER, Jan. 7.—(BUP)—The psychology of fear is sweeping Germany and the Nazi warlords are using it to keep the Axis war effort.

There is little doubt that the Axis' military setbacks have damaged the prestige of the Nazi party and aided in the deterioration of civilian morale. But Paul Joseph Goebbels, preaching "conquer or perish" has successfully propagandized fear of the day of reckoning.

The German people fear the swelling Allied military power. They fear coming events on the battlefields. They fear that the day of vengeance for the Russians Poles, Czechs and other Nazi victims is coming. But most of all they fear the Gestapo.

Observers reaching the frontier believe that Adolf Hitler's gift of fear to the Germans has united them for the country, but they are certain that eventually it will result in swift and complete collapse on the home front when the Axis armies are beaten decisively.

GRUMBLING IN MUNICH

There are undercurrents of unrest apparent already. Goebbels' slogan, "Wheels roll for victory," has been distorted into a popular cynicism, "Heads roll for victory."

There is no sign of a real military or popular uprising against Hitler yet, but observers agree that Munich, the birthplace of Nazism, is the centre of outspoken grumbling and complaining.

It is questionable whether this is a serious threat of revolt or mere ly a Nazi-approved "blowing off steam," giving an illusion of free dom and providing an outlet for futile opposition that the Gestapo could easily quench.

CRITICIZE HITLER

In Munich, Hitler is criticized openly without respect for the swarming Gestapo and "the dirty Prussians" are blamed even for the deterioration of the famous Munich beer. Some travellers report the existence of several embryonic peace movements there, but more reliable sources agree the unrest is merely harmless grumbling.

Germany's intellectual life has reached a new low level. Almost no books are printed because of the paper shortage. Allocation of paper supplies to the churches has been suspended and prayer-books are unobtainable. The Swedish Protestant church offered to provide prayer-books for Germany, but the government refused the offer.

Music appears in the universities are rare, although there are more women students than ever before.

Fear and unrest are reflected in widespread suicide sections. Discontent is reported in Austria, where the Catholic church is unfriendly to the Nazis and where the strong Socialist workers movements never have been completely crushed. Austria is described as "The German's bomb shelter" because of the hundreds of Nazis who have fled there from Royal Air Force raids.

MYSTERIOUS FIRES

Mysterious fires and breakdowns have been reported in factories in the Ruhr Valley and even in Berlin. A few days ago, the 70-hour work week have been quickly and ruthlessly suppressed in the Ruhr. Fear has penetrated even to the army ranks. It is reflected by repeated official appeals to the German people to "write cheerful letters to the troops and avoid any depressing remarks."

The constant fear and uncertainty has created a sort of escapist gaiety in Berlin and other cities where an effort is made to escape the strain.

There was a splurge of enthusiasm for horse-racing last Autumn and a rush for the most expensive seats in the theatres and movies, which were sold out for weeks in advance. The new 50-cent luxury restaurants turned aside all but their oldest customers. The less expensive eating places were jammed, crowded, although dancing has been banned since the start of the Russian campaign.

Many of those arrested were accused of possessing weapons or secret radio sets, charges punishable by death.

Cocktails usually are made of wine and fruit juices.

PROPAGANDA SHOWS

The legitimate and motion picture offerings are heavily propagandistic, but they also are largely escapist. One movie hit was billed as "giving the most lovely illusions of love and happiness." The state theatre presented Salome. The Winter Garden advertised a dance review with "a dozen real Shetland ponies," Scala has burlesque, which, like many other stage shows, presents the greatest degree of feminine nudity.

The family question itself has presented a difficult problem for the Nazis, with 8,000,000 foreign workers within the Reich. Drastic penalties, including death, recently were instituted for war prisoners who have relations with German women, but reports quoting Italian diplomats in Berlin, said statistics showed that at least 8,000 illegitimate children had been born to Berlin women during the past year.

Letters found in possession of Germans taken prisoner on the fighting fronts reflect the home front worries of the soldiers. A Rumanian in Germany, writing a friend on the Russian front, said:

"The German women are losing control of themselves. They are very depressed. Karl, home on leave, divorced his wife because she was with child by a war prisoner-old son has not eaten a vege.

WOMEN LONESOME

Another letter, written by a German woman to a soldier relative, said:

"Berlin is a city of internationals speaking every language. Many women are complaining bitterly because their husbands are gone. I must refuse to think of this."

The Nazis generally refuse women permission to travel outside Germany because, officially, 'they talk too much."

Travellers describe Berlin as a city where mostly women and foreigners are seen on the streets. There are Rumanians, Italians predominate, but there also are French, Poles, Rumanians and Czechs.

The Jews steadily become fewer. Not many are seen now during the 'Jews' hour' after 6 p.m. when they are permitted to shop in certain areas.

Jews constantly are being shipped to the east. They are given 10 marks (nominally about 5¢) and a suit of clothes. Their other property is sold and the proceeds given to the Nazis' winter relief campaign.
